Re-Elect Betty Taylor Integrity Independence Experience

When you do a great job word gets around!

"Betty has tirelessly represented her ward with great integrity."
—Mayor Kitty Piercy

"Dr. Betty Taylor is the conscience of the Council. I urge everyone to vote for her as she continues to represent the public interest."
—Pete Sorenson, Lane County Commissioner

As a councilor she has cast reliably progressive votes, particularly on matters relating to the environment and civil rights. She's willing to stand for what she believes in, even if it means she sometimes stands alone.
—Register Guard Oct. 7, 2012

GROUND GAME

THE ROAD TO NOVEMBER 6, 2012
BY NANCY WEBBER

SOULS TO THE POLLS

The ground game is working in Florida

Last week I walked across the street to ask Miss Vienna if I could go to church with her. Churches all over Florida were organizing events to take faith voters to the polls on Sunday, Oct. 28. I wanted to see what a “Souls to the Polls” event looked like.

In 2008, more than one-third of African-Americans voted on the Sunday before Election Day, which helped President Obama carry Florida. It’s a crucial day for working class voters who may not be able to stand in long lines during the week. This year Florida’s Republican legislators targeted early voting and cut the number of days the polls would be open before Election Day from 14 to eight. The polls will be open on only one Sunday.

Many consider the new law to be blatant voter suppression, but Gov. Rick Scott justified the move as an effort to prevent voter fraud. According to several studies, including those done by the Carnegie-Knight Initiative on the Future of Journalism Education, the Brennan Center at NYU and even the Bush White House could find only a handful of voter fraud cases in Florida since 2000.

Vienna is a retired school administrator, a passionate Obama supporter, who recently went to see him at the University of Miami. When I asked her about Souls to the Polls, she hesitated then said that the Baptists and several other black churches organized events.

Vienna is a Jamaican-born immigrant who was one of more than 250,000 people left homeless by Hurricane Andrew in 1992.

“I couldn’t tell where the house was,” she says. “If I live to be a 1,000 years old, I will never forget the scene and the smell.”

Now she lives in a racially diverse community with neighbors who have immigrated from Haiti and Cuba, or moved from elsewhere in the U.S. One family is the second generation to live in the same house.

During Hurricane Rita in 2005, the roof blew off the house next to Vienna’s. A neighbor watched from his window. He worked against the wind to reach his car, then drove across the street and rescued the elderly couple from their home. After the storm, Vienna sheltered the couple until their roof could be repaired.

“We love each other. We take care of each other. We get along well,” Vienna says. She admires Obama for the same characteristics. “He’s here to help the needy, not the greedy.”

I asked again about Souls to the Polls on Sunday and she politely told me, “I’m a Seventh Day Adventist. I go to church on Saturday.”

I was disappointed, but decided to keep asking. The first volunteer to come in the office was Christina, an immigrant from Eastern Europe, and probably not a good candidate for my request to go to a black church. She works in a nail salon near the Obama office. She asked for a lawn sign while I was opening boxes of supplies and lawn sign wires.

When I gave her the sign, she looked at my hands and said, “Oh, honey! Paper?”

“Yeah, and cardboard,” I said.

She made me sit down, pulled a small bottle out of her pocket and filled several cuts with something that looked suspiciously like Super Glue. She looked carefully around the office as she worked and asked, “Are we doing OK?”

It’s a tough question to answer, because the national media doesn’t take the time to explain how the ground game works and, in my opinion, that is where an election is won or lost. I explain to Christina that, according to the Florida Division of Elections, the Obama campaign registered six new voters for every one new voter the Romney campaign registered before the Oct. 9 deadline. It’s a good sign, but still leaves the final outcome in the hands of the more than two million independent voters.

Christina, who is upset that neither candidate is talking enough about education, interrupts my explanation. She’s worried about Hurricane Sandy and the turnout both in Florida and up north. We all are, but even though the polls show Romney leading in several swing states, including Florida, no one is giving up.

When Sunday, Oct. 28, arrived, I was unable to go to church, but I checked in with volunteers in Liberty City and Miami Gardens, who told me that the lines were long and steady. Some voters boarded buses after church, while others marched to the polls. They carried banners, followed a band or drum corps.

As I write this, the storm warnings for Hurricane Sandy have been canceled for South Florida, but another storm is just beginning to rise as Election Day approaches. More than 1.1 million Floridians have already voted absentee. On Sunday, churches in Miami-Dade County helped to bring more than 22,000 people to the polls, people who know by heart the scripture passage that has gone before every march since the early days of the civil rights movement:

“Let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.” ■

YOU ARE NOT ALONE

On behalf of the Human Rights Commission and the city of Eugene, we extend our deep sympathy and concern for acts of hate and violence that have occurred in our community.

The Human Rights Commission and the city of Eugene stand in solidarity with those who are impacted, and will speak out against acts of hate and violence. We do not condone either the acts themselves or the acceptance that silence implies.

Any public response on our part that might identify targeted individuals will not move forward without the explicit consent of those who were targeted. While we honor all requests for confidentiality, we do keep track of reported incidents and use them to help us assess problems or trends in our community that we want to address.

We are sorry that acts of hate and violence occur right here in our community. Please know that you are not alone in your anger, frustration and sadness that these incidents are happening.

Eugene must be a safe and welcoming community for everyone. Anything less diminishes us all. To report bias incidents contact the City of Eugene’s Equity and Human Rights Office at 682-5177. To report bias crimes contact the Eugene Police Department at 682-5111 (non-emergency) or 911 (emergency).

BETTER STREETS

Since the last street repair bond measure passed in 2008 we have all seen major improvements to the condition of the streets and paths we use to get around. Whether a commercial truck driver, a bus operator, a family biking to school or individuals driving their cars, things are in better shape because we voted to fund work that is not being paid for any other way.

Keeping up our transportation network is expensive, and until more people start moving around the city in different ways and we change how we pay for our transportation modes, we simply don’t have enough funds coming in through other means to keep that network running smoothly.

The previous ballot measure worked. More streets were repaired than originally projected (54 vs. 32) and miles of multi-use paths were improved. The citizen review committee reviewed the city’s work and helped make improvements to the process. The bond measure was a success and now it’s time to continue that work.

Measure 20-197 would continue to fix our potholes, work on preventative maintenance and improve our bicycle and pedestrian network. If it isn’t passed the backlog of street and path repair work will just be pushed back and get more expensive. Vote “yes” on Measure 20-197 for better streets and paths for everyone.

THE PUPPY VOTE

Thanks to your cover story [10/25] on the South Eugene Ward 2 council election, I was able to finally make up my mind. I want to compliment you on the title, “Fifty Shades of Betty,” to clue us in to Taylor’s “wink & kink” association with Eugene’s outlaw sexual subcultures. The double entendre with the pop porno novel was a subtle hint indeed, letting some of us (nudge-nudge) know who to vote for.

After seeing the Weekly cover, while looking at the campaign literature, I realized that her opponent prominently displays his vanilla breeder credentials with a photo of his family at Crater Lake. In contrast, the mailing from Taylor had a photo of her with a cute little puppy, cleverly inferring that God will kill a puppy for every vote for her opponent. Clearly, if you love puppies you should vote for Betty.

RECYCLE RON DAVIS

For over 30 years we have lived across the road from Ron and MaryJo Davis. They have been great neighbors. He is always stopping to check on people on our road to make sure they are OK or need help. During this time we have watched his creativity. He has built a passive solar green house to help heat their house. In this greenhouse he has a composting toilet that helps save water and recycle minerals back to the earth. In addition they have solar panels that help to provide electricity for them and their neighbors. He believes that we only have one Earth and we need to help preserve it for our children and future grand children.

MaryJo has contributed to our town with her Rosebud consignment shop. It has really helped our children to get clothes and toys cheap or for trade. What is left over gets donated back to the needy in our community.

Ron was on the start-up board of the Emerald People's Utility District and did a great job in bringing us better service and cheaper rates. Now is the time to re-elect and recycle Ron back into the public service that he did so well. He may be 70, but he has the heart and energy of a 40-year-old to do great things for the people and environment. He's so smart and caring. If he can build a solar recumbent electric bicycle I think he can put the people back in the utility district.

MAN WITH A VISION

We need an elected official who would bring a strong integrity, a vision and desire to move our city forward, one who would promote a healthy and productive economic system with respect for the environment for our children.

That person is Juan Carlos Valle, who came to this country looking for opportunities and who knows what it is to be homeless, hungry and shunned. He worked the migrant worker circuit both in Oregon and Washington, earning little money but building determination to do better. He earned his way through higher education at LCC, where he was recognized as a distinguished scholar, then went on to the UO and made it all the way to grad school in policy and management.

His voice has been heard on many committees and task forces in our city. Juan Carlos has established partnerships to address air and ground pollution in west Eugene and on top of that he is an advocate for social justice for all.

His hard work, education, community involvement, and his willingness to take the lead when necessary have prepared him to join the City Council. His candidacy brings new insight and a new voice to the council. It's time for a change; pass your vote for Juan Carlos Valle, a man with a vision.

We have recently become aware of the slanderous attacks against our longtime friend Ron Davis who is currently running for the EPUD Board. To attempt to refute each lie would be a waste of energy and time, which we believe is exactly what these people want. It is a smoke-and-

A Eugene Treasure

What you might not know about Betty Taylor

They broke the mold when Betty was born — she’s one of a kind! Deciding to support Betty Taylor’s re-election to the Eugene City Council Ward 2 is fairly simple: Not only is she a home-town hero, respected across Oregon and in Washington, D.C., she’s really the only qualified candidate in the race, by far. Her civic resume goes back decades and is unmatched, probably unprecedented in both quality and breadth in the current or any council in Eugene’s modern history.

Taylor currently serves on the prestigious Board of the National League of Cities (NLC), a body which represents each U.S. city — well over 200 million citizens. The League of Oregon Cities mounted a successful campaign last year to elevate Taylor to that post, which puts her on the cutting edge of national urban policy representing Eugene and Oregon.

Taylor’s list of local leadership roles is a mile long: president of the City Council, chair of Lane Regional Air Pollution Agency, Police Commission, McKenzie Watershed Council, chair of the Human Services Commission, Workforce Partnership Board, Lord Leebrick Theatre’s first board, etc.

Mayor Kitty Piercy has endorsed her and says “Betty has tirelessly represented her ward with great integrity.” Taylor has won the backing of all leading conservation groups. She has strong union support and deep ties to the UO community. County Commissioner Pete Sorenson calls her “the conscience of the council,” and former congressman Jim Weaver calls her “the most valuable member of the Eugene City Council.”

Taylor is known for being the council’s leader for education and human rights and for standing up to unchecked ugly sprawl, against automatic tax giveaways to out-of-state developers and for her persistent efforts to preserve the Amazon headwaters. Her sympathy for homeless citizens and for abandoned and injured companion animals is unsurpassed on the council.

What few citizens know, however, is her fascinating and compelling life story. Her life path through the Great Depression is a story of great hardship in a close-knit family facing starvation and homelessness. It is the stuff of a John Steinbeck novel and a profile of overcoming great odds.

Her early years were spent in rural Tennessee, Kentucky and southern Illinois. One day her father lost a finger, and his job, loading concrete on a river barge. Faced with destitution, the family was saved by grandparents sending a sack of flour and a bag of unripened green apples. The family moved to where jobs — stripping tobacco, picking strawberries — could be found. At one point, the family lived in the attic of relatives before finally moving to southern Illinois, where her father found steady employment in the depth of the Depression.

Throughout these hardships was an abiding deep family bond, and a love for reading had Betty trying to devour every book in her small town’s library. Her mother dreamed that one day Betty would earn a bachelor’s degree, a rarity at that time. Betty went on to earn a Ph.D. in English, becoming a noted scholar and having a long career teaching English at the high school, community college and university levels.

Her civic leadership dates back to the mid-1950s and the McCarthy era when she started a citywide civil rights discussion group and TV program in Illinois, enlisting local ministers and lawyers. She spearheaded the Sangamon Conservation Council in the 1960s, fighting to protect open spaces and riparian resources. Since then she has supported the Sierra Club, ACLU, NAACP, Audubon Society, NOW, League of Women Voters and dozens of local and national candidates. She came to Eugene in 1979, falling in love with the city’s artistic, political and tolerant social community.

Taylor is being challenged by developer and resource extraction forces who have poured money into the campaign of Ward 2 newcomer Juan Carlos Valle, whose supporters read like a Who’s Who of Republican big donors. Valle has a thin civic resume, having recently resigned as chair of the Police Commission in the face of reported impending demands for his resignation from members dissatisfied with his leadership style. Taylor has shown grace in not exploiting Valle’s embarrassing difficulties, preferring to press her issues instead.

Development and real estate forces want to remove the often 4-4 progressive-conservative Council split. Taylor is incredibly vital, regularly climbing Mount Pisgah with her retriever Lucy and attending dozens of meetings each month, attending her Unitarian Church, bringing city staff for field inspections when neighbors voice alarm and taking leadership roles on the NLC.

We can’t afford to lose this remarkable, decent and innovative leader from the Eugene City Council. ■

Ron Davis is a long time resident of Cottage Grove, a devoted husband, friend and grandfather with years of successful public service experience. He is a man of integrity and honesty. Ron served on the EPUD Board from 1981 to 1994. He is well aware of the issues facing EPUD and the problems that have plagued the utility in recent years. In particular, a lack of transparency and accountability has undermined EPUD’s reputation as a progressive public utility.

Ron will help the EPUD Board return to the core values of innovation, efficiency, transparency and accountability. While we have no wish to denigrate his opponents, we are sure that Ron’s commitment to excellence and integrity make him the best choice for the EPUD Board.

WRITE IN MULIER

When the residents of Lane County cast their ballots this year, they will be electing a judge to Position 7 of the Circuit Court District 2 through a write-in ballot. I would urge them to write in the name Vincent Mulier on their ballots.

Mulier is a defense attorney currently serving the people of Eugene and I have had the honor of being one of his students at Portland State University where he teaches philosophy. I’ve taken two of the courses that he has taught, “Philosophy of Sex and Love” and “Morality of Punishment.” Through my conversations with him, I have found him to be a man of great principle with the highest of respect for the rights and the dignity of all persons and a thoughtful person who has put great deliberation into his moral stances. Consequently he is a strong friend of marriage equality, the environment and the rights of labor.

There are more staid figures in this race, more conventional established ones, but there is no one more thoughtful, no one of greater integrity, and no one who represents such a bold and principled alternative to the judicial status quo as my good friend and professor. I hope that when the good people of Lane County cast their ballots this year, they do so by writing in Vincent Mulier as their choice for Circuit Court Judge, District 2, Position 7. He would be a tireless advocate for their rights and for our beautiful Oregon.

POT IS VALID MEDICINE

The U.S. government granted a patent on cannabinoids as antioxidants and neuroprotectants, Patent #6630507, on Oct. 7, 2003. Cannabis is medicine that helps brain-injured folks. It’s that simple. Vote “yes” on Ballot Measure 80.

MIXED-UP PRIORITIES

EW staff writer Shannon Finnell accuses Springfield City Councilor of making “xenophobic and offensive” comments about Centro LatinoAmericano (“50 Shades of Betty,” 10/25). Then in the same piece she asserts that “the demographics of the Eugene City Council will be ugly” if it ends up being mostly male or all-white.

I sometimes forget that such statements and attitudes are not offensive to liberals, those stalwart defenders of tolerance.

I’ve always felt that qualifications matter most for those in public office. I’ll respectfully remind said liberals of what happened not long ago when Eugene hired two police officers primarily on the basis of their ethnicity instead of their qualifications.

REAL CHANGE NEEDED

Yeah, hooray, Pat Driscoll. You couldn’t have said it better [Letters, 10/25]. Voting for Obama is being an active participant in the farce of our two party, so-called democracy. Only when progressives decide to vote for a third or a fourth or a sixth party which truly represents them will there be any hope for real change.

This time around, Jill Stein’s platform deserves our votes, Barack Obama’s doesn’t.

*Georgette Silber

WAKE UP, CHARLIE!

EW’s endorsements remind me of Charlie Brown trying to kick the football that Lucy is holding. Just like Charlie Brown, EW swings ever-optimistically, hoping the Democrats will be the progressive liberal saviors of EW’s dreams. Wake up, Charlie Brown! Lucy will pull the football away at the very last moment and you’ll be flat on your back.

EW’s rote party-line endorsements are no less predictable than the R-G’s and no more inspiring. Voters who want to cast their ballots for peace, sustainability and a genuine democracy do have choices in this election but you wouldn’t know it by either the EW’s or the R-G’s endorsements.

I cannot vote for a presidential candidate who supports expanding coal and oil production and whose “foreign policy” keeps winding up killing kids in Third World countries. I’m voting for Green Party presidential candidate and Harvard-educated activist Jill Stein. And I’m voting for Pacific Green Party candidate Seth Woolley for secretary of state because Oregon needs campaign finance reform and a secretary of state who will use his role on the State Land Board to properly steward our state’s precious forests.

MISSING THE MUSIC

A recent EW featured a grand total of three musical event write-ups for the entire week, and the limited genres covered are predictable. I do not believe this reflects Eugene’s abundant and diverse music scene, and it is a poor use of space. Over a dozen events could have been highlighted in this allotment of space with fewer, more direct wording.

As a music producer and music fan, I do not believe the entertainment features live up to the Weekly’s otherwise stellar commitment to inclusion, diversity, and fairness. Shorter and more creative features would be much more respectful of the mecca for the arts that Eugene is known for.

ABUSING THE SYSTEM

I am an LCC student. It is very disturbing to watch what I call "professional students" abuse the financial aid system. Yes, everyone has the right to further their education, but not to abuse it! Some may not see this as an issue, but I do. Financial aid is not to support drug habits or to party with. This leads me to the welfare system and how it can also be abused. If in the future the government starts drug testing everyone who is in the welfare system, then I believe financial aid should also do drug screenings. After all, it is government money!

ONE OF LIFE'S GIFTS

One of the reasons pot should be legal is that the secrecy that prohibition brings to families and friends is very divisive. Parents and other relatives can't smoke around minors. They have to hide from all their relations as if they were criminals. This creates a mentality in all those involved that there is something bad and it should either be hidden or told to the authorities.

Cops aren't doctors, and although they have the experience of being around pot users, they are not qualified to speak to its healing or harmful qualities.

I don't smoke it, but I don't abstain because of moral reasons. I am very sensitive to it and it reacts badly with me. Even though I stay away from consuming it, I think it and for that matter all entheogens should be legal, its use legitimized and its quality kept pure. I mention entheogens, a word many may not be familiar with, to encapsulate all drugs (plants and chemicals) that have a spiritual value, hence the word theo or "god."

Let this new age of the water bearer that is coming upon us be one of enlightenment and unity. Let's free up our jails (the most populated per capita than any country in the world, even China). Let's use jails in the traditional sense for murderers, rapists, thieves and other people who harm others, not those that are trying to explore their minds and find religion. Hemp products would also be a great boon to our economy and the environment.

GREEN PARTY FIGHTS FOR EQUITY

While many Eugeneans have already settled on voting for Democrats or Republicans in the Nov. 6 election, other parties are on the ballot, and third parties are actively registering new voters. According to the Oregon Blue Book, about 26 percent of Oregon voters were registered with third parties or are unaffiliated with a party.

Pat Driscoll, Pacific Green Party candidate for Oregon state treasurer, says that in the upcoming election, the Green Party's goal is to provide voters with information and alternatives on issues and give voters a broader point of view than they see from the two "corporate parties."

Driscoll says that environmental destruction, corruption in the banking industry, targeted kills abroad and the deaths of innocents by remote drone control all go completely unchecked under President Obama, so it's hard to consider him the lesser of two evils. "When you talk about evil, what line do you have to cross before recognizing that certain actions — like murder, theft, torture, destruction of the environment — are those actions enough on their own to warrant saying, 'I'm not voting for that; that's a line I'm not willing to cross'?" Driscoll asks.

While the Green Party is known for its pro-environment positions, Driscoll says that the biggest misconception voters have about the Greens is that they're only concerned with sustainability. "We're also very supportive of social and economic justice and also peace and nonviolence," he says. "Our four pillars of the Green Party are sustainability, social and economic justice, grassroots democracy and peace and non-violence."

To make the elections process more inclusive of third parties, Driscoll thinks that barriers to participating in events such as debates need to be removed. "Any candidate who's on the ballot should be in front of the American people," he says, citing Green Party presidential candidate Jill Stein's presence on 85 percent of U.S. ballots this year. He says that getting the money out of politics is also vital to leveling the playing field.

Driscoll says that about 11,000 Oregonians are registered with the Green Party, including about 2,000 voters registered in 2012. About 69 percent of Oregon's Green Party voters were born after 1980, he says.

Green Party presidential candidate Jill Stein and Libertarian candidate Gary Johnson debated for the Independent Voter Network Oct. 17, and footage can be viewed at wkly.ws/1dj. EW did not get a response to an interview request with a representative from the Oregon Libertarian Party, but you can check out our interview on marijuana regulation with Libertarian vice-presidential candidate James P. ## MORE VOTERS REGISTERED ON CAMPUSES

People in their late teens and early 20s don't have the best track record when it comes to voting. That's why around election time, voter registration volunteers show up on college campuses, encouraging students to fill out their registration cards. The registration deadline has passed, but now it's up to students to follow through and vote.

Students especially tend to not vote "down the ballot," meaning they vote for president but not for key local races, but student voters living close to campus will want to pay attention to Phil Barnhart in District 11, Paul Holvey in District 8 and Nancy Nathanson in District 13, all state representatives in districts surrounding UO. Also of interest is longtime City Councilor Betty Taylor vs. Juan Carlos Valle in a race for southeast Eugene's Ward 2.

Merriam Weatherhead, president of the Associated Students of Lane Community College, says she wants to make a positive change at LCC through voter recruitment.

"The moment we don't vote is when we lose our voices in the political system," Weatherhead says. "We've seen tuition increases year after year, and I think that students see registration and voting as a way to be more involved than in the past. If we don't vote, we're contributing to our tuition going up."

In the last presidential election, voter turnout in the 18-to-24 age group was at 49 percent, the lowest percentage of all the age groups in 2008. With LCC's voter recruitment efforts this year, the registered LCC student population now surpasses the average.

Weatherhead says that 6,886 students were registered to vote at LCC, comprising more than half of the on-campus student body. Calling it the "single largest voter registration campaign ever" for LCC, Weatherhead says registration this year is an improvement over two years ago, when less than 4,000 students were registered.

The UO saw a record-breaking year as well, with more than 9,000 students registered. Greg McAteer, legislative director for Associated Students of the University of Oregon, says ASUO far surpassed their initial goal of registering 6,000 students. Starting in the summer, ASUO volunteers, along with volunteers with the Vote OR Vote Campaign, gave classroom speeches and recruited voters off the sidewalk.

McAteer says that while registration is important, the next step is being informed.

"Read up, do some literature searching and make sure you understand the language on ballots," McAteer says. "Educate yourself — it's your obligation." — Amy Schneider

SANDY'S ENERGY IMPLICATIONS

Just days before Hurricane Sandy smacked into the East Coast, turning New York City streets into waterways, a tsunami advisory was issued for the West Coast from Alaska into California, as well as Hawaii, as a result of an 7.7 earthquake off the coast of British Columbia. These water disasters, or near disasters — the tsunami was in the end rather small — call to mind the 2011 Japanese quake and tsunami and the subsequent nuclear plant dangers that arose. Oregon State scientists recently announced that trace amounts of radiation from the Fukushima nuclear reactors were found in Northwest albacore tuna, but say the fish are safe to eat.

The Oyster Creek nuclear plant in New Jersey shares the same design as the Fukushima Daichi plant that released radiation after being hit by the tsunami, according to news reports. A press release from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission says an alert was released for Oyster Creek on Oct. 29, "due to water exceeding certain high water level criteria in the plant's water intake structure." The agency listed 10 other plants, including Three Mile Island, that were being monitored by NRC inspectors during the storm.

Oyster Creek was already shut down for a regularly scheduled outage, the NRC says, but nuclear energy critics say the danger is as much from the spent fuel rods, which are cooled in pools of water, as it is from the energy generation itself. An "alert" is one level above an "unusual event" and is the second lowest of the four NRC action levels.

Meanwhile on the West Coast, Canadian papers are reporting that activists say the Oct. 27 earthquake and tsunami was a wake-up call for the companies working to build oil pipelines through Canada to the coast where the oil would be loaded onto tankers. They warn of dangers to the pipelines due to quakes and flooding — the 2011 oil leak into the Yellowstone River was believed to be caused by flooding — and the activists warn of oil tankers 10 times the size of the Exxon Valdez that could be swamped by a tsunami.

While earthquakes have not been linked to climate change, scientists have predicted that storms and hurricanes will increase as the global temperatures increase. Scientists at the Oregon Climate Change Research Institute in a 2011 study wrote that in Oregon, "Coastal infrastructure will come under increased risk to damage and inundation under a changing climate," and they note impacted sectors include transportation and navigation, coastal engineering structures and flood control. With the current debates over the International Port of Coos Bay's attempts to export coal via trains and tankers, and liquefied natural gas through pipelines and tankers, it appears that natural disasters, climate-change induced or otherwise, have implications for Oregon's energy industry. — Camilla Mortensen

IT'S ABOUT TIME BY DAVID WAGNER

The American wigeons are back in the Delta Ponds. I believe these are the first of our winter migrants to arrive. I look forward to the increasing diversity of waterfowl. On our side of the Delta Highway we have had only mallards and Canada geese for a long time.

Turtles can be seen in the Delta Ponds on the west side of Delta Highway but it appears the cormorants have usurped them from their favorite logs. With increasing cold weather and less sun showing, the turtles will burrow into the mud at the bottom of the ponds to brumate.

Now that summer is over, the old needles are falling from the Douglas firs in great numbers. These are last year's needles for the most part. The needles that emerged from their buds this spring will finally get around to doing their job. Over the rainy season they will double in thickness, storing carbohydrates. When the weather gets warmer in the spring, they will transport that energy down to the tree trunk and put on some board feet.

Seedlings have sprouted everywhere now that the rainy season has begun. Things like bedstraw and bitter cress have a pair of seed leaves, called cotyledons. They were already present in miniature inside the seed. Grass seedlings send up a single, tiny, green spear. That's why members of the grass family are known as monocotyledons while those families with two seed leaves are called dicotyledons. Conifers are different; hemlock seeds have up to six cotyledons.

ANIMAL ADVISORY PANEL TO BE AXED?

More changes may be afoot for the local animal welfare services scene. After city and county funding cuts led to the jettisoning of the Lane County Animal Services (LCAS) program in favor of Greenhill Humane Society running the shelter and splitting up the welfare officers by city and county in July of this year, questions abound as to whether or not the LCAS Advisory Committee may be next on the chopping block.

The board-appointed LCAS Advisory Committee of citizen experts was created in 2008 as a part of the Save Adoptable and Treatable Animals mandate passed by the Lane County Board of Commissioners, which required transparency for all LCAS activities. But according to committee appointee Molly Sargent, the board is letting the committee wither, with just four of its seats currently filled.

"The LCAS Advisory Committee is a voice for this community to speak up for their homeless animals. Disbanding this committee would show just how little Lane County commissioners care about their animal shelter and the homeless animals it cares for," Sargent says. "It is as if the county wants the LCAS advisory committee to die a slow death by attrition."

After the vote that ultimately resulted in contracting with Greenhill for the shelter work, including euthanasia, formerly performed by LCAS, County Commissioner Rob Handy made a motion to retain commissioner oversight of the contract with Greenhill and to keep the advisory committee engaged. That motion went down 3-2 just like the original vote to defund LCAS, with Commissioners Jay Bozievich, Sid Leiken and Faye Stewart creating the necessary majority for the decisions. Handy says that the board will likely vote whether or not to disband the committee before the end of the year.

"We still have a need for citizen oversight and a role for the animal welfare advocates who care so much about this program; all those things are not happening right now," says Handy of the current situation. But Cary Lieberman, Greenhill director and former co-chair of the LCAS Advisory Committee, says that Greenhill already has a board of directors made up of community volunteers and experts as well as committees with citizen volunteers providing advice and oversight to its activities.

As for the advisory committee, Lieberman says, "I could see it evolving; I don't see the benefit of keeping it in the form that it was ... where people want to keep the [advisory] committee, it's really a duplication of what we already have. Between the animal care committee, between the board, between the marketing committee, this would be adding a public committee to oversee a non-profit's activities ... so I don't necessarily see the continuation of the committee in that form."

Lieberman adds that the developments of late have been a natural progression as LCAS transitioned over the years from an animal control role, to a more shelter-focused one, creating the appropriate context for Greenhill to take over, he says. "This is a normal evolution ... overall, this is the direction we're seeing around the country, and I think it's a positive change for this community."

But local animal advocates remain concerned that the loss of the committee means the loss of citizen input into the area's efforts to go no-kill and how the county and city handle difficult-to-place animals, euthanasia, treatment of older and ill animals and other animal welfare issues. — Shelley Deadmond

ISLAM AND CHRISTIANITY AT THE UO

As evidenced by the infamous anti-Islam video that attracted a whirlwind of attention after it was alleged to have been linked to the Benghazi embassy riots in September, religion continues to remain a touchy subject these days. For Saba Mahmood, a professor of anthropology at UC-Berkeley, it's a topic that she hopes to understand more clearly through her studies of religious issues in Egypt.

On Nov. 2, Mahmood will visit the UO and discuss her research in honor of the university's Department of Comparative Literature, which turns 50 this year. Currently, Mahmood is examining the status of non-Muslim minorities in the Middle East. Her keynote lecture for the anniversary celebration will explore the Egyptian novel Azazel, which was translated into 20 languages and won the International Prize for Arabic Fiction, but met adversity when orthodox Christians in Egypt took offense to its Islam-centric contents and tried to ban the book.

Mahmood says this case is comparable to similar upsets in Western culture, when religious groups react to criticism or mocking of their religion.

"We tend to think, 'Oh, these are just religiously sensitive people who can't stand American commitment to freedom of expression,'" Mahmood says. "But we can't say that this is simply religious anger. We need to try to understand the serious nature of their objection, and unless we begin to do this, we will continue to engage in incomprehensible chatter which reinforces our prejudices against each other."

Mahmood's lecture, "Secular Humanism and Religious Conflict: Muslim-Christian Debates in Egypt," is open to the public as part of the three-day celebration for the UO's Department of Comparative Literature, which has the distinction of being the oldest comparative literature program on the West Coast. The lecture starts at 4 pm Friday, Nov. 2, in 182 Lillis Hall, followed by a reception at the Papé Reception Hall in the Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art. — Amy Schneider

WARM CLOTHING COLLECTED BY EPD

Eugene police are once again coordinating the collection of warm clothing, boots and other various winter weather items to be distributed to community service agencies that help the homeless community stay warm this winter.

Officer Randy Ellis has spearheaded the collection for the past several years and last year West University Neighborhood residents Don and Anne Dezarn pledged to match up to $2,500 of funds collected after seeing the success of previous years and the impact on this vulnerable population.

This year the Dezarns are offering to match up to $3,500 raised through this outreach. In addition to the donations of shoes, blankets and coats, the money raised purchased more than 75 pairs of warm boots, 110 gloves, more than 200 pairs of socks, more than 100 sleeping bags, backpacks and countless other items.

Ellis will be collecting donations of clothing and checks at the West University Station near campus at 791 East 13th Ave. through Nov. 19 for delivery to local service agencies.

SLANT

• Will your vote bring back the unicorns? Probably not right away. But not voting might bring back the dinosaurs. A few zombies are also on the ballot, hoping voter apathy will allow them to rise and feed. Mmm. Brains. Deadline for voting is 8 pm Tuesday, Nov. 6, and white ballot boxes can be found around town and on campus. Many of the races and issues in this election are too close to call. This is a time when an individual can make a difference.

• Staggering millions from corporations are being pumped into state races in the hopes of swinging the Oregon House to Republican control, and anything goes, including outright lies. Republican Dwight Coon is campaigning with deceptive TV ads and mailings against incumbent Rep. Val Hoyle in District 14. Coon's campaign even sent out a letter claiming Coon, not Hoyle, deserves credit for the Junction City hospital and prison projects, which "have actually been harmed due to Val Hoyle's involvement." The letter drew sharp criticism from Gov. Kitzhaber, Rep. DeFazio, Sen. Courtney and others involved in the projects. "Oregonians should reject Dwight Coon's fantasyland attacks," DeFazio says. Kitzhaber says Hoyle's leadership has been key to keeping the projects alive. Coon, meanwhile, has been caught on tape bashing Oregon's minimum wage for agriculture workers. Bad for business.

More craziness can be found in the John Lively vs. Joe Pishioneri open race for District 12 where the Republican Pishioneri couldn't find any substantive issues to raise so he's aligned himself with the anti-gay, anti-choice and anti-government voters in the district, maybe hoping the national ballot will bring out the shrinking number of neo-cons in Springfield.

• It's ironic that broadcast coverage of Hurricane Sandy gets interrupted by ads for "clean coal" and the benefits of natural gas fracking. Fossil fuel industries generate mind-boggling profits each year and they help reduce their taxable income by spending millions on advertising. Americans are being brainwashed to think everything will be just peachy if we keep drilling and mining. Why isn't Obama pushing harder to make climate change a defining issue in this election? The issue probably doesn't play well in focus groups. Despite the growing evidence, Americans are less concerned about climate change than they were a decade ago. Many of the fossil fuel TV ads end with an actor saying, "I'm an energy voter," reinforcing the idea that energy policy is a political choice, rather than an issue of rational, scientific necessity. Adding to the disconnect, the mainstream media continue to ignore climate change as they report on increasingly bizarre, climate-related disasters.

• Bethel School District Measure 20-209 deserves a "yes" vote and we've added that measure to our endorsements this week, thanks to reader feedback. This measure authorizes $49.5 million in bond sales to replace two 1950s-era elementary schools, Fairfield and Malabon, and do repairs and upgrades, including new textbooks and computers. Earlier bonds are being paid off so the tax rate for Bethel residents will remain the same.

• Here's a suggestion for Barack Obama when he returns to the White House, please. Send Timothy Geithner and his buddies back to Wall Street. Bring in Robert Kuttner and Phil Angelides, both recent speakers in Eugene under the "Capitalism and the Common Good" theme of the Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics at the UO. Founder of The American Prospect magazine, Kuttner wrote A Presidency in Peril in 2010, a book that should have stirred Obama to listen to this powerful progressive voice. Angelides, former state treasurer of California, flew east at the invitation of Nancy Pelosi to head the Financial Crisis Inquiry Commission in July 2009. Speaking in Eugene Oct. 29, he noted "very little change ... business as usual" on Wall Street four years after the crisis. Both Angelides and Kuttner are strong supporters of Obama rather than Romney, but they speak with urgency about the need to curb Wall Street's power.

• Oregon footballers have flown past all the competition this season, but that should change when the Ducks head for USC this Saturday. USC has lost two games and may appear to be struggling, but USC is still USC and still attracts elite athletes. Oregon has relied on better, faster athletes to whip teams this year. Against USC, Oregon won't have that advantage. Every USC recruiting class over the past four years has been ranked substantially higher than Oregon's. USC's passing game combines experience at quarterback and talent at receiver, so look for USC to throw the ball all over the field. Playing at home, USC's athletes and experience will push the Trojans past the Ducks by seven.

WHAT'S SUFFRAGE GOT TO DO WITH IT?

A Celebration of the Oregon Women Suffrage Centennial (1912-2012)

What's Suffrage Got to Do with It? Is the Official performance about woman suffrage, celebrating Oregon's Centennial year of 2012. The evening's event will begin with a brief history of women's voting rights presented by Nancie Fadeley, League of Women Voters. Following will be a rousing reenactment of the arguments made for and against suffrage, by both men and women, in a dramatic costumed performance created through research into speeches, letters to the editor and news articles from 1912.

The local performance is hosted by the Lane County Historical Society and sponsored by the UO Osher Lifelong Learning Institute and League of Women Voters.

PAVING PARADISE

Courthouse Garden running out of time

The lush and productive Courthouse Garden east of the U.S. Courthouse in Eugene has garnered national attention as an innovative collaboration between the city of Eugene, the University of Oregon, local businesses and the judicial system, but it may get bulldozed and paved over if a local credit union or another private business buys the 1.9 acres of city-owned property.

The three-year agreement that allows the UO to use the land free for a garden expires in February and “there have been no other offers to purchase the property since it was acquired,” says Denny Braud of the city’s Planning and Development Department. “We look forward to assisting the university with its future garden plans as it transitions from the space.” Braud doesn’t anticipate any extensions of the agreement.

The Courthouse Garden, inspired by U.S. District Judge Ann Aiken, was always intended to be a temporary use of the land, but it has evolved to become a “unique civic asset,” says Ann Bettman, co-founder of the garden and former director of the UO Urban Farm. She says the Courthouse Garden grows 6,000 pounds of food each year to feed Lane County’s homeless and hungry, and serves as a center for urban agriculture and landscape architecture education for UO students, at-risk youth groups and more.

Northwest Community Credit Union (NCCU) is pursuing purchase of the property and the Eugene City Council will be looking at the proposal in a noon work session Wednesday, Oct. 31, just after EW goes to press. Earlier this week the sales price was still under negotiation, along with any tax breaks or system development charge waivers that the credit union is requesting or the city is offering. The property is not within any state enterprise zone, but is targeted for development within Eugene’s controversial Urban Renewal District.

City Councilor Betty Taylor says the pending sale and likely subsidies are significant enough to warrant a public hearing, but City Manager Jon Ruiz tells her a hearing “is not necessary and that they (NCCU) are in a hurry. It would take a council majority to require a hearing.” Taylor says she was surprised to see the agenda item pop up with less than a day’s notice. “If I had plans for this evening [Tuesday] and my usual Wednesday morning commitment, I might not have known anything about the agenda item before Wednesday’s meeting.”

UO landscape architecture instructors who have taught at the site say the current location has many advantages. They like that the site is halfway between the campus and downtown, and that it’s very visible and accessible.

High school students and their teachers, along with various groups working with at-risk teenagers, have taken advantage of the Courthouse Garden for learning about urban agriculture and picking up gardening skills that they can use throughout their lives.

Another benefit of the site is the looming presence of the U.S. Courthouse, which discourages theft and vandalism. The Courthouse was described by one teacher as a “big scarecrow.” From the garden, it’s impossible to know who might be looking down, or what cameras might be pointed at the garden.

One of the people drawn to the garden was Jeffrey Lurs, an environmental activist and former prison inmate. He is now a graduate student in landscape architecture at UO and spends a lot of time at the garden. “The Courthouse Garden is a unique opportunity for the UO to have a positive impact on social justice and food security issues in Eugene,” he says, “and for the UO to give something to the community other than another sports arena.”

Can the garden be relocated? Bettman says “It’s not reasonable to just scoop it up and move it. You destroy it and build another one.”

One of Bettman’s frustrations is that she hasn’t seen another site that works as well. One site that has been mentioned is a city-owned strip of concrete-covered land between the railroad tracks and Franklin Boulevard, just west of Louie’s Village Restaurant. Bettman says the site is too long, narrow and too noisy for teaching and she’s concerned about railway spraying of herbicides. Dealing with the concrete is another issue and expense, along with fencing.

Is there room for both a credit union and a garden on the current site, or perhaps some greenspace to help connect downtown to the river? “It would be interesting to know,” Bettman says. “There’s new thinking about the UO’s take on the Riverfront Research Park, the possibility of EWEB redevelopment going through, the 8th Avenue Great Street, and that site is really just in the hinge of all those things. It’s critically located. It seems to me that if we could take a longer view of things, and maybe find a better site for the credit union, we would have a chance to do something a little more exciting on that site.”

The site also includes the old office building for Agripac, which local historian Jon Pincus describes as “one of the last intact remnants of Eugene’s early industrial base.” He says it is a “highly significant historic site ... and any architect or developer with creativity should be able to accommodate that but as you know creativity, when it comes to integrating historic properties into development, seems to be in short supply in Eugene.” ■

A CELEBRATION OF BELGIAN BEER

Best of Belgium

Belgium is renowned for its vibrant and diverse beer culture. A rich tradition of culinary invention and improvisation, combined with centuries of brewing passion and expertise, helped craft a stunning variety of beer styles enjoyed around the world.

Leffe Blonde was first brewed in 1240 by the monks of Abbaye de Notre Dame de Leffe in Belgium. A spicy, faintly clove-like aroma is balanced by Leffe's creamy body and restrained dry finish.

Stella Artois' rich brewing heritage dates back to 1366 in Leuven, Belgium, where it was first brewed to celebrate the holiday season. Traditional malted barley and the highest quality European hops give Stella Artois its full flavor and delicately crisp finish.

Hoegaarden is the Original Belgian Wheat Beer, dating back to the 15th Century. A naturally cloudy beer, Hoegaarden features a secret to its refreshing flavor and spicy nose: real Curaçao orange peel and a dash of coriander.

Always Enjoy Responsibly.

"There is a very deep commitment in Lane County towards feeding hungry people. It goes deep and it has for a long time," FOOD for Lane County Executive Director Beverlee Hughes says. Established in 1984 with just one staff member and one volunteer, FFLC has grown over the past quarter century to be the powerhouse nonprofit we know and trust. The vision remains: eliminate hunger in Lane County. And while distributing 7.5 million pounds of food every year makes a massive difference, FFLC is not stopping there. "Because our food supply has been limited and the number of people who need our services is greatly increasing, we've turned to our local economy and we've turned to local farmers and have asked them to start growing crops for us," Hughes says, noting that this past year six farmers switched from grass seed to grain crops to help out and the project was a huge success, one they'll continue into the future as they strive to keep besting their bests.

The craziest origami that Tomo Tsurumi, saxophonist for Volifonix, has ever crafted is his series of five, 1-meter tall Godzillas for the 2010 Halloween Reebel Jar show at the McDonald Theatre. Wait, no. It was the $2,000 engagement ring folded with 10 Benjamins and 20 Grants. Oh, and what about the 99 unicorns he whipped up for this photo? Tsurumi has lived in Oregon for 16 years and has been practicing origami for more than 30; his mother taught him at age 4 when he lived in Japan. "I like it because it's beautiful, simply," he says, also pointing to his fondness for the art's geometric principles. The artist came to America for "education, adventure and rock 'n' roll." When he's not playing epic sax solos, Tsurumi teaches others how to make origami and speak Japanese. Check out his video making dog, butterfly and Godzilla origami with Eugene as a backdrop: wkly.ws/1do

BEST THEATER PRODUCTION

1. (tie) Avenue Q — Actors Cabaret of Eugene & Lord Leebrick Theatre
3. Silver Spurs Saloon — Phoenix Players

Imagine our surprise when we counted ballots and realized that Avenue Q votes (well, those that neglected to mention the theater company) could go to either Actors Cabaret of Eugene or Lord Leebrick. We decided to call it a tie based on the overwhelming Avenue Q response, and we'll be sure to specify that we need the show and company if we keep this category next year.

BEST DJ

1. GOLDEN DJs
2. DJ food stamp
3. Marc Time

GOLDEN DJs is a group of some of the most driven DJs Eugene has right now, persistently pushing their ideals, and making us adopt their tastes, until we love it, and then, enough to vote them Best of Eugene. GOLDEN DJs is comprised of DJs Rain, J.Ray, Crown and food stamp, and while they might spin (strictly vinyl) tracks at night, by day they are your average Eugeneans. DJ food stamp is even an instructor at UO. Playing almost every venue Eugene has to offer (and boasting the title of the only DJs to play Jameson's ever), their mission is to take us back to hip hop's golden era and make the role of DJ and educator synonymous. DJ food stamp elaborates, "In reality, none of the GOLDEN DJs are musicians per se. But I think that we are all well-versed in the history of recorded music and what sounds dope. We are all about bringing those familiar sounds to the fore, and we play a lot of original breaks and samples ... The DJ nowadays is straight-up an entertainer, whereas in prior decades the DJs was an entertainer and educator. So we try to bring back the education element to the party scene instead of just playing that bullshit in everybody's iTunes playlist." GOLDEN DJs are funky, unique, and they have attitude all their own. With the countless shows they play all over town, they are definitely a must-see for the true hip-hop fans out there.

BEST CLOTHING DESIGNER

1. Laura Lee Laroux revivalclothing.com
2. Alli Ditson www.allihalla.com
3. Mitra Chester deluxefashionshop.com

You've seen her designs all around town: those effortlessly cool, nymph-like women wearing rustic ruffled pants or grunge-chic plaid jumpers. And she's definitely made the fanny pack look not only acceptable, but also fresh with fringe detailing and studded black leather. "I design for women that enjoy practical clothing," says Laura Lee Laroux, who is also the owner of The Redoux Parlour (see Best Resale Store and Best Store to Feel Sexy). "My stuff definitely has a kind of ruffle-y, western flair but also a menswear structure. You can wear them mushroom hunting or to a concert." Her top sellers are her "utilitarian" overalls and shirtdresses. As a designer, what does Laroux hope for Eugene's fashion-forward future? "I would love to see a production house go in," she says. "There's a need for it. This city is aware of it, too."

BEST BAND

1. Sol Seed solseedmusic.com
2. Volifonix volifonix.com
3. Dreamdog

Playing an array of venues around Eugene, ranging from the McDonald to Cozmic, Sol Seed has a heavy local presence. With hypnotic beats and graceful rhythms, Eugene is lucky to call itself home to such a unique band. "What sets us apart is the variety that our music brings. We have multiple lyricists, everyone gets a chance to sing and rap, and we all write our own lyrics," says percussionist, didgeridooist and vocalist Sky Guasco. "We incorporate a lot of different instruments, we have a didgeridoo, electronic, dub, saxophone, and we integrate a lot of instruments. Reggae is definitely our backbone, but there's also a hip hop influence; there's Latin, funk, blues, jazz lines; we bring a lot to the table." You'd be hard pressed to find a band as interesting and entertaining as Sol Seed anywhere else. As much as EW readers love the band, their concerts show that they return the affection. "At our shows it's not so much being on stage playing to the audience, it's the energy we give to the crowd and what we get back," Guasco says. "Our shows are about reciprocated energy, and they're a lot of fun. It's an honor to be a part of Best of Eugene."

The Bier Stein has a strange foreign name that refers to an ornamental earthen beer mug in German, but at this pub it's not the mugs we're concerned with, it's what they're filled with (then promptly and completely emptied). In addition to its stock options of more than 1,000 bottled beers, The Bier Stein is just as well known for its consistently top-notch selection of beers on tap. From a Mr. Yuck Sour Pumpkin Ale by Seattle-based Elysian Brewery to Block 15's Heliotropic Ale made with only the finest "fresh picked nugget hops" from Corvallis, the Stein keeps the tap almost strictly Pacific Northwest — just a pils or two from across the pond to keep the out-of-towners from whining that they're getting buzzed too quickly from the otherwise 7.1 percent average-alcohol-by-volume tap lineup.

3. The Davis Restaurant & Bar 94 W. Broadway. 485-1124. www.davisrestaurant.com

Full disclosure: Last time we went over to Meiji to write about the drinks there, we wound up drinking, and drinking some more. Try to describe Izakaya Meiji and you usually start with “Japanese whiskey bar.” You can’t go wrong, even if you are whiskey newbie — the whiskey and ginger is just right and the hot toddies on a cold day warm you from the inside or at least make you feel warm and fuzzy. But Meiji is more than whiskey. Hit the bartenders up for whatever concoction they are mixing up that day. The mixologists have never steered us wrong.

BEST HAPPY HOUR

- The Starlight Lounge, located on Olive Street off 8th Avenue, runs on mood lighting, a vibrant crowd and happy hour specials. Happy hour lasts from 4 to 7 pm seven days a week, with many drinks sold for $2 and a special on Oregon microbrews and other beers on tap. If you are, for instance, craving a white Russian with Crater Lake Vodka in the early evening and have nothing but $2 (plus tip) to spend, this is your place.

3. Diablo's 959 Pearl St., 343-2346, diabloeugene.com
Sam Bond's is an excellent spot to see some up-and-coming talent in Eugene and from across the country, but when the professionals aren't taking the stage, Sam Bond's various jam nights are also a must-visit. While they do have an Irish jam night that they are very proud of, their bluegrass jam was voted best in Eugene. “Our bluegrass jam is super fun and friendly; I think it showcases a lot of great local musicians who can get together and make great music on a weekly basis,” co-owner Todd Davis tells EW.

Ever get so wasted you started craving a gigantic, hearty bowl of food? Us neither; we only have one or two on special occasions. But if we did have the drunchies, it's probably a safe bet that we'd hit The Horsehead Bar and mack on some red beans and rice, mac and cheese, or that scrum-diddly-umptious catfish. Just when you think the impossible choice between beer and coffee is going to completely ruin your day, Oakshire's Overcast Espresso Stout happens. The coffee-flavored oatmeal stout gets its dose of java from Wandering Goat's cold-brewed coffee. Oakshire's Amanda Pence says Overcast is special because it's a brew for any time of day, to pair with sweet or savory food, and even during those rare Eugene days when it's not actually overcast.

What is it about Cowfish that makes it so attractive to the looking-for-love (or sex) crowd? Co-owner Shawn Mediaclast says, "I'm just happy that the people who work there made it so that everybody feels comfortable being who they are at Cowfish; there's a really light-hearted, friendly vibe that makes everyone feel welcome." Cowfish also features an array of DJs offering entertainment many nights of the week, so if you're looking to get down, both literally and figuratively, Cowfish is the place to be.

Since 2006, when Jamie Floyd and Nikos Ridge started the brewery, Ninkasi has grown to totally dominate the craft brew world. Well, maybe that's an overstatement, but only slightly — the brewery has recently overtaken New Belgium as the fastest-growing craft brewery in the country, according to marketing director James Book. Growing pains, yes, but not at the price of quality. "We're not going to do it in a way where we're going to sacrifice quality — it's gotta be the best beer," he says. "We make beers that we like and we'll spend more to make them the way we want to drink them." The growth continues: Ninkasi broke ground on the next expansion (its fourth in five years) in early October. Readers mirror our favorite brewery by continuing to grow in their love for its hop-licious brews.

Hideaway's bread menu is a perfect place to seek out loaves you'll love, like the kalamata olive loaf, seeded sourdough, country levant or fig anise rolls. In addition to its food, Hideaway is a neighborhood gem that's fun for southeast residents to walk to and very kid-friendly.

If you've never been to Mezza Luna, do yourself a favor and visit its website so you can check out the litany of meat and veggie slice varieties created since opening in 2005. Mezza Luna's Jody Nichols says one thing that makes the restaurant special is "the love put into each pie" as each is carefully made from scratch. Even the cheese is hand-grated. She says the Boss Hogg (bacon, spinach, Roma tomatoes, regular and smoked mozzarella, garlic-olive oil base) has made the jump from the slicer menu to the regular menu because "everybody wanted it every time they came in," and the Savory Garden (artichoke hearts, sun-dried tomatoes, fresh spinach, roasted red and yellow peppers, roasted garlic, with mozzarella cheese and artichoke pesto sauce) is a winner among vegetarians.

from Clatsop County

Nestled between the Columbia River and Pacific Ocean, Clatsop County celebrates a heritage of hard work and preservation. We value sustainability and economic opportunity in a vibrant community among the natural resources we all share.

Columbia River salmon are a public resource that belongs to everyone. Generations of families involved in the highly regulated commercial gillnet fishing industry have provided this prized delicacy for consumers in Oregon and beyond in a responsible manner.

Whether you come to catch your own or enjoy our locally caught Columbia River salmon from your local market or restaurant, we want to thank you for supporting a very special part of Oregon.

BEST HANGOVER BREAKFAST

1. Brails 1689 Willamette St. 343-1542.
2. Studio One Café 1473 E. 19th Ave. 342-8596.
3. Glenwood 1340 Alder St., 687-0355; 2588 Willamette St., 687-8201.

Not only does Brails have the best hangover breakfast, it literally has a hangover special on the menu, which includes two eggs, hash browns and a biscuit with gravy. And why is Brails such popular hangover cuisine? “The price is right and the food quality is great,” says Jeff Black, a kitchen manager at Brails. “Portions are good-sized and a lot of college students are really into that.” Traditional breakfast food is a must-have at Brails, with eggs and hash browns high on the list of student favorites. Add a nice breakfast burrito and that hangover will be gone in no time.

BEST BAKERY — SWEET

1. Sweet Life Patisserie 755 Monroe St. 683-5676. www.sweetlifedesserts.com
2. Hideaway Bakery 3377 E. Amazon Dr. 868-1982.
3. Metropol 2538 Willamette St. 465-4730.

SURPRISE! Ask any Eugenean where to find a delicious and diverse array of desserts, and Sweet Life is sure to be among the suggestions. “We always try to make things that we can tell that people want,” co-owner Cheryl Reinhart says, and that’s why they’ve added more gluten-free items to a selection that already included many vegan options and six desserts of the month. When heading to Sweet Life in November, look for the pumpkin cheesecake, gingerbread pear cake or the brand new quince hazelnut frangipane tart. Reinhart says that next on the list is experimenting with a natural fructose-based sweetener to create desserts lower in sugar. “We get lots of requests for low-glycemic-index, individual desserts like that,” she says. If anyone can perfect sugar-free sweets, it’s Sweet Life!

BEST BARBECUE

1. Papa’s Soul Food 400 Blair Blvd. 342-7500.
2. Hole in the Wall 3200 W. 11th Ave., 683-7378; 1807 Olympic St., Spfd., 726-1200.
3. H&H BBQ 575 Oregon 99. 688-3333. bbqeugeneor.com

BEST BURGER

1. Cornucopia 207 E. 5th Ave. 485-2676. www.eugenecatering.com
2. Dickie Jo’s Burgers 1079 C Valley River Way. 912-9091. www.djburgers.com
3. Falling Sky Brewing 1334 Oak Alley. 505-7096. fallingskybrewing.com

Vegans, vegetarians, herbivores and animal advocates, we salute you but please skip over the following and let us enjoy our patties away from your gaze. It’s no wonder Cornucopia won best burger — have you seen where its beef comes from? Go for a ride down Lorane Highway sometime and see the cows at pasture at Knee Deep Cattle Company in the rolling hills of wine country. If there is such a thing as happy cows, these 100 percent free-range and grass-fed cattle are it (they are also antibiotic and hormone-free). Cornucopia says it keeps nabbing “best burger” because it uses “all fresh local beef and make them fresh daily.” So if you haven’t already, pull up a chair at one of their two locations and order up a “Jeros Bacon Cheese Burger” or a “Big Baby Bleu Burger” stacked with bleu cheese, bacon avocado, lettuce and mayo — two of their most popular burgers.

BEST COFFEE

1. Wandering Goat 268 Madison St. 344-5401. www.wanderinggoat.com
2. Full City 295 E. 13th Ave., 465-9270; 842 Pearl St., 344-0475. www.full-city.com
3. Brails 1689 Willamette St. 343-1542.

This year’s reader votes for best coffee go to a Whiteaker staple, Wandering Goat. The folks at the Goat roast in micro lots, getting their beans farmer specific instead of co-op style, to keep the quality high and the variety vast. Patrons can stop by for a cup and watch the roasting process as it happens through the windows, which lead from the cozy coffee house directly into the roasting room. And if you feel coffeed out — if that is actually a thing — Wandering Goat offers a product somewhat new to the Eugene coffee scene: cascara, which is a tea made from the dried cherries of the coffee bean. It packs the same caffeine offering into a decidedly fruitier, smoother beverage, and the Wandering Goat is one of the only places in Eugene you can try some. So even if you’re a Goat regular, you haven’t stopped by in a while or are brand new to Goat’s java, there is always something new worth trying, right in the heart of the Whit.

BEST ITALIAN

BEST ANTHEM FOR EUGENE

“I’m gonna pop some tags, only got $20 in my pocket,” goes the incredibly catchy hook of Macklemore & Ryan Lewis’ hit “Thrift Shop.” Eugene, you look good, and often for less than $20. If you want a fresh look, you don’t cruise the mall or surf the internet, you go thrifting. From thrift shops to secondhand, vintage to consignment, we’ve got it. Thanks to the Seattle duo, we now have an ode to this way of life. The ridiculously fun ditty boasts about secondhand zebra jammies and grandpa coats — a refreshing departure from hip hop that touts a dripping-in-diamonds material worship. “It’s super exciting,” Ryan Lewis tells EW about being chosen Best of Eugene staff pick. “It’s a fitting song for the town.” He points out how many secondhand-clad fashionistas were at their recent sold-out McDonald Theatre show. While Macklemore (aka Ben Haggerty) has been a “life-long thrifter,” Lewis started more recently — that fur coat he wears in the music video? “It was a women’s coat,” Lewis says, laughing. “It cost 80 bucks.” Secondhand. So sorry Seattle, we’re co-opting Macklemore & Ryan Lewis for ourselves. In other words, “I’m a take your grandpa’s style ...”

BEST GUILTY PLEASURE MEAL

So this meal is probably two days’ worth of calories, but the next time you’re driving south on Willamette, stop at El Super Burrito. For the entre, it will be the eponymous El Super Burrito, a brick of steak, cheese, refried beans, pico de gallo and chile rellenos (cheese-stuffed and deep-fried roasted peppers). Add the guacamole and absolutely get a side of curly fries. Who knew that the Mexican restaurant in a strip mall a couple doors down from Off the Waffle would have the most satisfying culinary juxtaposition in town? These crispy treats go down best with a Mexican Coke. Need I say more? Put some of their “Weekend Sauce” on that sauce.

BEST PUB TRIVIA

Wednesday nights at 7 pm, Elliot Martinez (a Best Bartender finalist) hosts STUMP! Trivia at 16 Tons Cafe, a popular franchise trivia game that started in Boston. And for a franchise, it’s pretty entertaining especially with the sartorially superior Martinez at its helm. Says a “trivia guy” friend of EW (a former Knowledge Bowl competitor), the trivia quiz was “challenging but not pedantic and specific but not esoteric.” In laymen’s terms, it was pretty fun. Grab a crêpe and a craft beer to get your geek juices flowing. Oh and put your smartphones away, this quiz is gadget-free.

BEST PLACE TO FIND A COP IF YOU NEED ONE

Kesey Square — the combination of street kids, Voodoo Doughnuts and that cool Ken Kesey statue seems to have a peculiar attraction for the law.

BEST REASON TO VOTE NOV. 6

Save the Swedish Chef, a card-carrying union socialist who’s not in great shape. Big Bird has a big, sharp pecker and can take care of himself.

BEST UNEXPECTED PLACE TO FIND SEX TOYS

Broadway Apothecary at 1515 Oak. This store is full of surprises. Pharmacist Kate James even has a cool YouTube video about her certified compounding pharmacy, but the video doesn’t talk about orgasms. The friendly staff will, however, give you advice in person about this small collection of high-end products across from the front counter.

BEST NEW RESTAURANT

1. Rye 444 E. 3rd Ave. 653-8509. ryeon3rd.com
2. (tie) Taco Belly 291 E. 5th Ave. 687-8226. eatbelly.com
Falling Sky Brewing 1334 Oak Alley. 505-7096.
fallingskybrewing.com

This year's winner for best new restaurant is Rye, and it is very little wonder why. With a team devoted to amazing and unique foods, beverages and pairings of the two — not to mention a chocolatier on staff offering exclusive sweets to provide the perfect end to any meal — Rye's rotating seasonal menu and economically friendly prices are sure to deliver something for everyone. From the warmth of the decor to the friendliness of the staff, you'll feel at home and well taken care of from the moment you walk in to the moment you leave, undoubtedly satisfied.

BEST RESTAURANT

1. Belly 291 E. 5th Ave. 683-5896. www.eatbelly.com
2. Marché 296 E. 5th Ave. 683-2260. marcherestaurant.com
3. Cornbread Café 1290 W. 7th Ave. 505-9175. www.cornbreadcafe.com

Belly is a gem of a Eugene restaurant, with its pleasant atmosphere, elaborate yet affordable dishes and locally sourced, seasonal menu. Self-described as “rustic, European farmhouse soul food,” how could you go wrong? Meat lovers will delight in the pork confit with crispy polenta and plums and the glazed lamb ribs. And, of course, the well-balanced drink list is an added bonus.

BEST PLACE TO EAT WITH KIDS

1. Laughing Planet 760 Blair Blvd., 868-0668; 2864 Willamette St., 505-5399.
2. Stay home! You're why Daddy drinks! NIMBYville
3. Papa's Pizza 1700 W. 11th Ave., 485-5555; 1577 Coburg Rd., 686-2240; www.papaspizza.net

We hesitate to say it's all about the dinosaurs because that would belittle the mutually beneficial relationship Laughing Planet has provided to parents and their offspring all around Eugene: nutritious options that kids think taste good — like good ol' rice and beans (together, a complete protein) or a mini quesadilla. That said, the dinos are key. “Kids really like to take all the dinosaurs to their table and they don't like to really share,” says Blair Boulevard store manager Rachel Fabrocini. Another front counter employee adds that she's garnering a photo collection of some serious dino stacks. Where else but at Laughing Planet are tiny greasy fingers hoarding and stacking plastic prehistoric figures not just welcomed but also encouraged? As if the food wasn't enough! And vegetarians love it — in the Veggies Gone Wild burrito, for example, black beans, steamed broccoli, spinach, grain medley, cilantro lime slaw, green beans masala and Thai lemongrass peanut sauce all roll together like it was meant to be. If discovering an exotic burrito match is a part of an individual's destiny, Laughing Planet is there to help you eat your way straight to cosmic bliss.

BEST STREET MARKINGS

We appreciate that all the bike dudes painted in the bike lanes around town have helmets on. But the bike lanes near campus have dudes with helmets with horns and spikes!

BEST FELICIDADES HOUR

Mission Mexican on Franklin, time and time again, has been there for us when we need a little booze before 5 o' clock. With a happy hour that lasts all afternoon until 6 pm, and really good Mexican food to boot, we really can't complain.

BEST REASON WHY EW DIDN'T WRITE ABOUT YOUR BAND, YOUR EVENT, YOUR DOG'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

We hate you.

No really, we don't even know you. We love everyone, but we totally extra-love folks who send us their events in advance accompanied by extra-large pictures you took with a real camera. But we do enjoy your conspiracy theories, too.

BEST PLACE TO GET PICKED UP BY CLUELESS OLDER MEN

The wine section of Market of Choice. Seriously, since when is "Excuse me, does this wine have sulfites?" a pick-up line?

BEST PLACE TO GO CAMPING AND CALL IT ACTIVISM

The scenery under that bridge at Jefferson Park was so beautiful, it's a wonder Occupy Eugene ever bothered moving. Feel like catalyzing change while enjoying the primitive life? Head on down to the warehouse at 1274 W. 7th Ave. and pitch that tent.

BEST REASON TO SUPPORT EMX MASS TRANSIT

Woo-hoo! You can roll your bike right on and off the bus.

BEST PLACE TO GET NAILED FOR SOMETHING LEGAL

"Oh man, that midterm was really difficult; I'm freaking out right now. OK, it'll be fine. There's nothing you can do to change it. Just breathe. Breathe in the calming fumes. Oh, sorry, sir, I forgot campus was smoke-free now. Thirty bucks you say? Holy crap. Do you take Mastercard?"

BEST WAY TO HAVE A PORTLANDIA MOMENT

Go to Kiva, but hide your reusable cloth bag under your coat. Wait for the cashier to sigh "I guess you will need a BAG" and then whip out the one you brought. This works at Capella and Sundance too.

BEST USES FOR THOSE PROLIFIC ART ROBINSON BOOKS

Firestarters, butt-wipes, bird cage liners, door stops, origami, fantasy and science fiction reading, drinking games

BEST TATTOOS WE SAW AT THE OREGON COUNTRY FAIR

Loved that string of Disney characters dancing just above your cute rear cleavage. They would look good on women, too.

BEST MEDITERRANEAN-GREEK-INDIAN

1. Poppi's Anatolia 992 Willamette St. 343-9661. www.poppisanatolia.com
2. Evergreen 1525 Franklin Blvd. 343-7944.
3. Café Soriah 384 W. 13th Ave. 342-4410. www.soriah.com
A Eugene fixture since 1987, Poppi's Anatolia has definitely made its mark on our town, consecutively winning Best of Eugene. As to its secret, "The people, the people who work here are what make us the best!" Poppi's tells EW. Operating out of a humble-sized restaurant in downtown Eugene, Poppi's is definitely more about quality than show, aiming to provide meals that are friendly and nurturing while providing our taste buds the opportunity to travel across the globe in a single meal. To its fan base the restaurant says: "We appreciate the long-standing customers and clients who keep coming back even when we mess it up."

BEST MEXICAN-LATIN

1. (tie) Chapala 68 W. 29th Ave., 683-5458; 136 Oakway Center, 434-6113. chapalasmexicanrestaurant.com

BEST THAI

1. Ta Ra Rin 1200 Oak St. 343-1230. www.tararinthai.com
2. Sweet Basil 941 Pearl St. 1219 Alder St. 284-2944. www.sweetbasileug.com
3. Sabai 27 Oakway Center. 654-5424. sabaicafe.com
Mmm. Pumpkin curry sounds like the perfect dish for an autumn eve. Made with Asian pumpkins (similar to squash, these pumpkins are mottled green on the outside, like a watermelon, with a slightly sweet yellow inside), bell peppers, basil and a red curry sauce, Ta Ra Rin highly recommends it. And as it's the most popular Thai joint in town, you should probably go order it. Ta Ra Rin says customers love its food because "we keep the food the same quality. The owner checks the food quality all the time." Arna "B" Khongkhaning, the restaurant's founder and head chef hailing from Bangkok, cooks the traditional Thai fare from recipes that have been passed down over generations.

BEST SUSHI

2. Tsunami Books 2585 Willamette St. 345-8986.
3. J. Michaels 160 E. Broadway. 342-2002.
Holy leather-bound book, Batman, there's a mountain of titles here. Walking into Smith Family Bookstore is sort of like venturing into a jungle; you'll probably need eyes sharp as a machete to handle the sheer volume of type-ridden book-spines ahead of you. This said, we've never needed to go elsewhere just because Smith Family was "all out" or "didn't carry that title," even if we were searching for an exact volume about gastropod behaviors. Thanks, Smith Family, for broadening our literary columbaria time and time again.

BEST KOREAN

3. Red Wagon Creamery redwagoncreamery.com

As the summer months come to a close, it is hard to imagine seeking out a sweet treat as cold as ice cream. Yet there are numerous studies that tell us that people eat as much, if not more, ice cream in the colder months. All things considered, it's a great thing we have Prince Pückler's, a Eugene tradition since 1975, to provide us our favorite sweet, creamy, cold treat year round. Prince Pückler's uses the utmost quality when selecting ingredients to bring us their array of unique flavors and old standards. And since it's election season, why not go down for a scoop of Obama's favorite — the one he happily consumed on his visit to Eugene — the mint chip.

BEST NEW BUSINESS

1. Falling Sky Brewing 1334 Oak Alley. 505-7096. fallingskybrewing.com
2. Red Cane Theatre 1075 Chambers. 556-4524.
3. Brails Espresso 1689 Willamette St. 513-0341.

Did you notice how many categories this budding local brewery was a finalist in? Best bar grub, best place to drink in the sun, best brewery, best burger, best new restaurant and, finally, best new business. As far as we can recall, that's a Best of Eugene record! Falling Sky is a hit because it's hard to decide which is better, the beer or the food. Luckily, the choice isn't mutually exclusive. And after less than a year in business, Falling Sky is already expanding.

BEST PLACE TO PAMPER YOURSELF

1. Gervais Salon & Day Spa 248 E. 5th Ave. 345-1312; 301 W. 5th Ave. 334-6533.
www.gervaiseugene.com

3. Bello 2746 Shadow View Dr. 345-0551. www.bellospa.com

Everyone deserves a little pampering, and for Eugeneans, the luxury of choice is Gervais Salon & Day Spa. Not just your average salon, Gervais offers the green-friendly brand Aveda, which is committed to environmental responsibility. Welcoming staff and a relaxing atmosphere add to the appeal. “We strive to make every person who walks through the door feel welcome and comfortable,” says Nanette McGie, the guest relations manager for Gervais. “Our whole motivation is based on beauty from within.”

BEST DOWNTOWN BUSINESS

1. The Kiva 125 W. 11th Ave. 342-8666.

2. Sweet Potato Pie 20 E. 11th Ave. 344-8810.

3. Passionflower Design 128 E. Broadway. 344-3857.

This quirky natural foods store was pretty cool before its recent remodel, but the made-to-order sandwiches and delectable deli section make us love it even more. The Kiva's shelves hold the practical — bulk food, fresh veggies, a great little book selection — and life's most important essentials — smudge sticks, cheap wine, beeswax candles. And as a bonus, the walk-up deli window and outdoor seating make it a perfect stop while walking the dog.

BEST TATTOO/BODY MOD ARTIST

1. (tie) Jimmy Singleton (left), The Parlour Tattoo 1097 Willamette St. 345-6465. www.theparlourtattoo.com

Splat Ter (right), High Priestess 525 E. 13th Ave. 343-3311. www.highpriestess.com

2. Clay Fraser, Aurora Tattoo & Gallery 304 E. 13th St. 844-1628. www.claythesavagefraser.com

Singleton from The Parlour takes a unique approach to tattooing, focusing more on the artistic aspect. "I offer something different than a lot of tattoo-ers: My drawings aren't overly tattoo-ish. I like artsy-fartsy stuff. I develop a really good rapport with my clientele. I try to listen and collaborate. I approach it with humility; I can draw really well but I want to make it what they want, that's really my goal." Prioritizing the customer, Singleton is warm and friendly, offering advice and helpful hints to the potential tattoo-ee. Because of this and his skillful hand, he along with Splat Ter, has been voted Best of Eugene.

Having mastered the art of appealing to the college students while still having respect from the locals, Splat Ter has countless awards under his belt, including various "Best Tribal" awards, "Best Overall Female" and "Best Full Color Back." While Splat Ter has a lot to boast about, he's actually very modest, and explains what he's proud of: "I put pride into my work, I have an amazing client base. I give every tattoo the absolute best that I can, and I take great pride in that."

BEST VET

1. CatCare, Limited 1400 Willamette St. 302-5824. www.catcarelimited.com
2. Bush Animal Hospital 2415 Oakmont Way. 246-7025. www.bushanimalhospital.com
3. Amazon Park Animal Clinic 725 E. 25th Ave. 485-0161. amazonparkvet.com

Walk in to CatCare, Limited and you are walking into a 100-year-old house and a cat-specific, family-owned business. Veterinarian Ann Samsell, who started CatCare 15 years ago, says those are just a few of the reasons clients come to the clinic for personal one-on-one attention to their kitties. She says that the homey atmosphere is accentuated for the cats because there are no dogs at the clinic to stress them out. After almost 25 years in practice Samsell decided to focus on felines because cats are “unique animals and have specific needs.” She says cats are “about the perfect pet.” One of the biggest challenges facing cats in Eugene is the amount of outdoor cats, and with the economic downturn people can’t always afford preventative care. Among the issues facing free-roaming cats are feline immunodeficiency virus (FIV, also known as feline AIDs), bite wounds and, Samsell says, rabies. She says that Oregon does not require a rabies shot, but even indoor cats should get one — one of her clients recently found a bat in her closet and a bat in Eugene recently tested positive for rabies. “It’s important to educate clients,” Samsell says, “empower them with information and teach them how to take care of their pets.”

3. Nature's Pet 2864 Willamette St. #200. 653-9247. www.naturespetmarket.com

Pets and cigarettes go together like ... things that you don't want your house to smell like. But actually, considering they allow pets to come inside, Mini Pet Mart doesn't smell bad at all, and it's got a great array of dog foods from organic and grain-free to mainstream brands. We like them because it doesn't matter if we show up with a pit bull or an ugly little Chihuahua, they always tell us the dog is cute and give it a treat. Rounding out this category is perennial favorite The Healthy Pet and relative newcomer Nature's Pet. All three of our readers' favorite places to pick up pet supplies are awfully nice about offering to carry out the massive bags of dog food it takes to keep the kennel at EW happy.

BEST PLACE TO WORK OUT

1. YMCA 2055 Patterson. 686-9622. www.eugeneymca.org
2. Downtown Athletic Club 999 Willamette St. 484-4011. www.downtownac.com
3. Oakway Fitness 170 Oakway Rd. 343-3314. www.oakwayfit.com

The YMCA has it all and a little more. Not only will you get a wellness coach to assess your overall health and goals when you become a member, but you'll get access to a suite of resources and offerings ranging from water yoga (“mindful motion”) to Zumba to racquetball challenges to SAT prep courses. A great fit for the health-conscious family and the wallet-conscious academic (just $35 per month for students) and everyone in between. Director Dave Perez has been there for 20 years and much of the staff has long histories with the Eugene Y as well — they must be doing something right because y'all keep going back!

BEST ALT SPORTS TEAM

1. Eugene Reign Women's Rugby eugenewomensrugby.com
2. Andromedolls www.emeraldcityrollergirls.net
3. Church of Sk8in www.emeraldcityrollergirls.net

The Eugene Reign, the women's rugby club team that believes blood makes the grass grow, is in the midst of another enjoyable season. The team, which recruits every summer, requires no experience to suit up for fierce, bruise-inducing battles against foes in Portland, Bend, Boise and Tacoma, among other cities. It is not surprising that the all-encompassing Reign's mottos include "Live hard, play rugby, die ugly" and "Rugby. All sizes fit."

EVERYTHING UNDER THE RAINBOW

BEST MALE ATHLETE

1. Ashton Eaton Oregon Track Club Elite
2. De'Anthony Thomas UO football
3. Galen Rupp Oregon Track Club Elite

Ashton Eaton, a 24-year-old decathlete who competes for Oregon Track Club Elite, is a former Oregon Duck who finished his collegiate career as one of the more decorated athletes in school history. This past August, the incredibly versatile Eaton added more medals and trophies to his mantle on the biggest of stages. He solidified his standing as one of the best all-around athletes in the world, winning the decathlon at the London Olympics, placing first in the long jump, 100m, and 400m, while also finishing in the top three in four other events. Before winning gold at the Olympics, he set the world record with 9,039 points in the decathlon at the Olympic Trials.

BEST FEMALE ATHLETE

1. Brianne Theisen
2. Bullet Brains Andromedolls
3. Frankie Facebreaker Skatesaphrenics

Brianne Theisen, a 23-year-old heptathlete, is another former Oregon Duck but she represented Canada rather than the U.S. in the London Olympics this summer. She won the heptathlon's 800m and finished in the top 10 in four other events. After completing her college career as a five-time NCAA champion, she finished 11th overall in the Olympics.

BEST TV PERSONALITY

1. Marc Mullins, KMTR
2. Rick Dancer, Rick Dancer Media Services
3. Justin Stapleton, KEZI

So they say that one of the things that sucks about being a TV news anchor is that viewers comment more often on wardrobe and hair-dos than they do on the news the anchor is reporting on. So we feel kind of bad saying right off the bat that we think Marc Mullins is cute. But there you go. We're shallow. Mullins tells us KMTR once got an email from a viewer that said, "You guys work well together and play well together." He says that people like the balance that he and the rest of the morning team strike at KMTR: "They know we have a job to do ... and they know we're people. And they know they're getting genuine folks in the morning. That email meant a lot to me." Mullins says one of his favorite stories was the time he reported on a woman who had used stolen identities and credit cards to buy cars and such. When she was arrested, she was at a salon and had just had her eyebrows shaven off in prep to have new ones tattooed on as permanent makeup. Karma got her in the end, Mullins says, and she only had one eyebrow done before she got hauled in for a mugshot. But while that made him laugh, the news anchor says he has to say, "I've told a lot of stories about triumph and pain, loss and heroism. And I just appreciate when the stories can make a difference or provide an outlet for others to sing the praises of their loved ones." Also in our top three are Rick Dancer and meteorologist Justin Stapleton, who we remember, correctly or no, as being the only person to accurately predict this year's spring snowstorm.

BEST PLACE TO WALK YOUR DOG

1. Alton Baker Park
2. Amazon Park
3. River paths

BEST VIEW

1. Spencer's Butte
2. Skinner Butte
3. Mount Pisgah

BEST PLACE TO HIKE

1. Spencer's Butte
2. Mount Pisgah
3. Ridgeline Trail

When it comes to hikes in Eugene, Spencer's Butte is clearly tops (err no pun intended). Viewed from the crest of Skinner Butte, it tantalizes you with its endearing, lumpy shape and decidedly more impressive elevation. That's why you should go climb Spencer's Butte. As in, right now. The view from the top is unrivaled in the fall, giving a breath-taking panorama of Eugene, speckled with brightly colored red and orange trees. The poison oak is pretty, too.

BEST PLACE TO BIKE

1. River paths
2. Everywhere!!!!eleventy!
3. Fern Ridge Trail

The bike paths that surround the Willamette River have been frequently used for exercise and as a way to bask in the riverside scenery. Sam Bollag, 23, rides the paths on a daily basis, and loves the feeling he gets being in the great outdoors. "Every day I get to see ducks, squirrels, geese and so many other animals," he says. "Who wouldn't appreciate that? It's a great place for me to clear my mind and take in Eugene's beauty."

BEST ANNUAL EVENT

1. Oregon Country Fair www.oregoncountryfair.org
2. Eugene Celebration www.eugenecelebration.com
3. Whiteaker Block Party whiteakerblockparty.com

Seeking a three-day marathon of music, crazy costumes and magical, fantastical festivities? Look no further than the Oregon Country Fair, where the spirit of fun resonates in a forest setting near Veneta. No matter what your interests, it's pretty much guaranteed to be an unforgettable experience.

To the average passerby, Morris Dancing probably looks like an act of utter lunacy, but to people who understand what they're seeing, it's pretty amazing stuff. A long-standing form of traditional English dancing, Morris Dancing involves ribbons, jingle bells, hankies and clacking sticks that get thrown around — in an impressive, choreographed fashion — all to upbeat fiddle, pipe or accordion music. Ask an Englishman about it and he'll probably smile and tell you that he grew up watching this sort of thing at village fetes. It was cool back then, and it still is now, even if it does look completely bizarre.

Two Rivers Morris, Pearwood Pipers & Mad Robin dance & sing in the English folk tradition 6pm Friday, Nov. 2 at the Downtown Public Library.

VISUAL ARTS BY MARIA ANDERSON

"HEAD FULLER" BY
BRYAN SCHULDt

OUTSIDE THE WHITE BOX

Inkblots, fishing crews and furniture cycle at the Mills International Center

If you were an artist, how would you represent the worst of the human condition? How about rabid hyenas emerging from the swollen, bandaged head of a faceless man? That's how artist and University of Oregon student Bryan Schuldt imagined it with his piece "Head Fuller," on display at the UO's Mills International Center. "Hyenas seemed to be the perfect animal to show disgust, fear, restlessness, anger and just a lot of 'bad' emotions that we have in everyday life, especially in interactions with others," Schuldt says.

The Mills International Center's fall exhibition, Cycles, features the work of four students: Bryan Schuldt, Mary Campbell, Alisa Akay and Bryan Putnam. First-time curator Justino Long hand-picked the artists.

The Mills International Center, in the Erb Memorial Union, is where many UO students go to study, catch up with friends or catnap on the saffron couches. More than that, this is a place for students to ease the transition from summer to fall, whether they come from Cambodia or Cottage Grove. For Long, the challenge with Cycles was to integrate the art with the space. "This room is not the typical white box of the gallery," he says. "My intention was to create some sort of connection between the work and the space, instead of just having the work here for decorative purposes."

In Cycles, the motif of reinvigorating sequence is the common thread. Long selected artists who examine familiar styles and compositions, yet find ways to arrive in foreign territories. Schuldt's "Rorschach Study," for example, is a new perspective on the psychological inkblot test. Putnam takes a look at the symbolic and narrative properties of tattoo in his "Sightings" series. Campbell places living room furniture in a fresh setting, and Akay's fall foliage takes on a metaphysical bent.

Putnam skillfully engages the contemporary artistic and cultural landscape through visual storytelling. In "Sightings," he invites us to interpret a strange, life-altering incident in the lives of a small fishing crew. See for yourself what this means, and while you're at it, make sure to check out his fantastic fish and "ESAV Studies" etchings.

Schuldt is another standout. In Schuldt's "Have Heart," two wraithlike figures with dotted halos part fabric to reveal a blue heart. His sculptural screen-print collage, "In the Quiet Absence of God," invites the viewer to decode the black and white scenes and their relation to each other. Horses graze, figures blur in ghostly symmetry and bridges against stark landscapes carve into the white sky.

Akay and Campbell use a color palette of pinks and reds to different effect. Campbell uses specific moments in her life as fodder for her work. She begins with the memory as a concrete reference point, and then dips "into a more unconscious world of color and experimentation with mark making." A Portland-born painter, Akay cites local artists Adam Grosowsky and Ron Graff as pivotal instructors. Akay renders her paintings with visible brush strokes, dynamic textures and vibrant, saturated colors. ■

Cycles runs through Dec. 3 at Mills International Center, University of Oregon; free. The exhibit is part of the Lane Arts Council's ArtWalk.

ACTIVIST FILM

Occupied Cascadia at the UO

OCCUPIED CASCADIA: Producers/editors, Mel Sweet and Devin Hess. Executive director, Casey Bryan Corcoran. Score: Zoë Keating and Hassan Estakhrian. Featuring, Charles Eisenstein, Derrick Jensen, Steven Hawley, Lierre Keith, Alexander Baretich, Max Wilbert, Claire Campbell-Williams, Chad Eneas and more. R. 125 minutes. 2012. ★★☆☆☆

The Cascadia Bioregion, according to Bend-based independent filmmakers Mel Sweet and Devin Hess, “is defined by geomorphology, including all watersheds that flow west from the continental divide through the rainforests of the West Coast.” It extends from the southeast Alaska Panhandle south into northern California and as far east as Missoula, Mont. Occupied Cascadia, they say, is “the first feature-length film to explore the Cascadian bioregional autonomist movement.” If you are not familiar with that movement, or always wanted to know what that blue and green flag with the Doug fir on it was about, then pick up a copy of the 1975 utopian novel Ecotopia by Ernest Callenbach, and you’ll start to get an idea.

The documentary, filmed over the course of a year, has scenes from Occupations in the Northwest, gorgeous shots of mountains and rivers, and still more, sometimes disturbingly lovely, images of crowded cities and of environmental destruction. The scenes are interspersed with narrators from author and enviro-activist Derrick Jensen to Native American Chad Eneas, who move the film from storytelling to patriarchy to greenwashing and more. It’s all set to a haunting background score by Zoë Keating and Hassan Estakhrian.

Despite a clear effort to include women and First Nations people, the film does feel dominated by the voices of white men. Though those white men, like

CLAIRE CAMPBELL-WILLIAMS IN OCCUPIED CASCADIA

Jensen, Charles Eisenstein and Steven Hawley, say a lot of things that need to be said about the state of the Earth and the environment, I would like to see a film that calls to “re-contextualize popular revolt within our life-world as a movement to decolonize, un-occupy and re-inhabit the living Earth through deep understanding and identification with our specific bioregions” start with a lengthy voiceover by a person of color, or a female-identified narrator rather than a white guy.

Don’t go watch Occupied Cascadia looking for action; watch it for its meditations on changing the world and personal action, starting perhaps with the Northwest. Think My Dinner with Andre with one-at-a-time narrators rather than dialogue. Watch it to learn more about the concept of deep green resistance and the criticisms environmental activists have not only for corporations and politicians, but also for one another. Remarks such as those by Eneas, a traditional knowledge keeper for the Okanagan Nation, who tells the viewer “I could tell you guys lots of stories about water because it’s that sacred and that powerful,” paired with images of salmon and dams, remind us that many disasters are manmade. The film’s discussion of man’s influence on disasters is particularly telling in the wake of Hurricane Sandy (aka the Frankenstorm) in this era of climate change. ■

Occupied Cascadia will be screening 8 pm Thursday, Nov. 8, at the University of Oregon, Lawrence 11. The filmmakers will be present for a Q&A following the film. For more info go to CascadiaMatters.org

DAVID MINOR THEATER WANTS YOUR VOTE

The pub theater screens The Campaign for its Re-election Party

Four years ago, this country was gearing up to elect Team Obama-Biden or Team McCain-Palin. Four years ago there were flag pins, Bill Ayers and lipsticked pigs instead of Big Bird, Bain and bayonets. Four years ago, Mitt Romney was a blip on the election trail and the U.S. was toppling into one of the largest economic downturns in history. And four years ago, the David Minor Theater (DMT) opened at 5th and Pearl St., bringing film and libations to Eugene. Friday, Nov. 2, the theater will host a "Re-election Party" to mark the conclusion of that crucial first term.

"We wanted to thank everyone in Eugene for allowing us to be open for four years," DMT owner Josh Goldfarb says. "We're still open and still running strong." The theater was named after a late friend of the Goldfarbs', David Minor, a 27-year-old Eugenean who was hit by a car while cycling in the summer of 2008. To commemorate the four-year milestone and rev up for the Nov. 6 elections, DMT will be screening The Campaign, a spoof of congressional elections starring Will Ferrell and Zach Galifianakis. The film, while clumsy and heavy-handed, has enough redeeming scenes (especially if accompanied with a pint) that remind you what a circus the political machine is. Ferrell's performance as the democratic incumbent Cam Brady feels a little recycled, but the porcine and mustachioed Galifianakis brings political buffoonery to a new level with too-tight cardigans and religious platitudes (his character, Marty Huggins, declares Jesus Christ to be the "greatest American who has ever lived").

One of the funniest lines in the film is so funny because it veers disturbingly close to the hyperbolic zingers we've heard during the 2012 election cycle: While stumping, Brady accuses Huggins of owning "Chinese" dogs (two pugs named Poundcake and Muffins). Following the event, an angry voter taps on Huggin's car window and screams, "Get some American dogs, you commie!" The pugs are soon replaced with a chocolate lab and golden retriever ("the two highest polling dogs").

In addition to the screening, DMT will be offering beer specials, prizes and $2 admission. So what does the DMT platform include for its next theatrical term? In early November, they will be unveiling a ticket window and new furniture in Theater 1. Goldfarb says he would also like to keep expanding their food and drink options (they added Divine Cupcake to the menu this summer). Rather than announcing who it's backing in the presidential election, DMT announced its own more hyper-local endorsement: "We would like to endorse Eugene's first downtown movie theater pub," Goldfarb says in reference to the new Bijou downtown cinema. ■

The Campaign screens 7:30 pm and 9:30 pm, Nov. 2, at David Minor Theater; $2. All ticket proceeds go to the David Minor Memorial Fund.

JAMMIN' WITH PURPOSE

Great American Taxi feature singer/guitarist Vince Herman, a founding member of Leftover Salmon, and they do a song called "Fuzzy Little Hippie Girl." So with a song title and jam band lineage like that it's a no-brainer they're playing Eugene, right? These country/rock road-warriors blend up-tempo classic country, folk and bluegrass, never afraid to address issues ranging from nuclear energy to war. On their latest release Paradise Lost, produced by Todd Snider, the group dials back the jam, placing even more emphasis on social commentary with songs like "Poor House" and "Radiation Blues" — perfect for fans of Steve Earle, Dan Hicks or Loudon Wainwright. "Politics should be in music," Herman says. "Everything's politics, especially music. Songwriting can draw attention to appropriate issues of our times."

Joining Great American Taxi on their "Left Coast Tour" are Northern California's Poor Man's Whiskey (PMW). PMW, featuring Eugene-raised Chris Haugen, are known for appearances at notable music fests like High Sierra and Hardly Strictly Bluegrass. Having developed a legendary live show, the group blends traditional covers, offbeat reinterpretations of Pink Floyd and foot-stomping originals. Like Great American Taxi, PMW are not afraid to mix message in their music with songs like "Jesus Was A Hippie," satirizing religious fundamentalism over gently plucked banjo and mariachi-influenced horns. Eugene is famous for its enthusiastic population of roots-music fans and this bill brings two of the scene's top acts together in an intimate environment.

Great American Taxi and Poor Man's Whiskey play 8 pm Wednesday, Nov. 7, at WOW Hall; $12 adv.; $15 door.

A FULL MOONLIT CANADIAN NIGHT

I like to think about what Petunia, frontman of Petunia and the Vipers, sees when he steps up to the mic. There's something about his old-timey aesthetic, warbling, velvet voice and smoky gaze that hint at a man transposed from another time, as if he was plucked from some turn-of-the-century ragtime saloon and plopped down on Sam Bond's stage. If you look really close, I bet you can catch the reflection of a rowdy bunch passing around Jimmy-Johns full of moonshine flickering across his eyes. And if you can't, the music will take you there anyway.

The Vancouver-based ensemble has been touring up and down the West Coast for its 2011 self-titled album, Petunia and the Vipers. The album is as rich, weathered and nuanced as an old pair of cowboy boots. Petunia sets the mood with silver-tongued vocals, yodels, acoustic guitar and kazoo while the Vipers set the scene with Stephen Nikleva on electric guitar, Jimmy Roy on lap steel guitar (who appropriately looks like the lovechild of Lyle Lovett and Sam Elliott) and Marc L'Esperance on drums and backing vocals. Depending on the night, upright bass is played by Patrick Metzger, Sam Shoichet or James Lillico. Petunia says the band came together from his "touring and hoboing around" and together they create a sound that is equal parts ragtime, country, rockabilly and jazz.

The album opens with "Cricket Song," showcasing Petunia's yodeling, which he says he has been practicing for over 15 years. Never has yodeling come so close to crooning before. "While the crickets are calling me on this full moonlit Canadian night," he sings, paying homage to his native Quebec and the band's sleepy version of "Stardust" is right up there with the greats. On "Yes Baby Yes," the band hits a swinging stride that comes to a head with the hopping "Gitterbug." So pass the moonshine and hit the dance floor.

Petunia and the Vipers play 9:30 pm Friday, Nov. 2, at Sam Bond's Garage; $10. — Alexandra Notman

WE LOVE YOU WOMEN!

There's going to be an extremely eclectic show at Oak Street Speakeasy this Saturday, Nov. 3 — a show that would probably never take place under normal circumstances. But, Grrrlz Rock is taking over this month, providing a somewhat abnormal set of circumstances. Grrrlz Rock is a month-long local concert series that spotlights and supports amazing female artists that light up this humble valley with music. A few acts are looking to make a splash at The Speakeasy this weekend.

Demimonde Slumber Party (DSP) sound like The Donnas and the B-52s had a baby, guitar-heavy with a distinctly retro, surfer-rock sound. Singer/songwriter/guitarist Melissa Lubofsky and drummer Kim Lindquist co-founded DSP in the 1990s, and after a rotation of bassists, they landed Tim Romain. Romain is now a long-distance band member based out of Seattle, but he is featured on all of DSP's albums. Locally, Lubofsky and Lindquist recruited bassist, Annette Scarle. With an organic garage-band sound, their current album, Heart in Outer Space, features Lubofsky's sassy vocals on an ode to chocolate, driving guitar solos and funky bass beats.

Jumping further back in time is the all-women group The Eager Beavers. Disregarding their lyrics for a second, The Eager Beavers sound like they are straight out of the 1930s (think The Andrews Sisters, except one-part sweet, two-parts raunchy). With instruments like the upright bass, banjo and kazoo, and smoky swing vocals, The Eager Beavers usher in controversial, blush-worthy lyrical content on bouncy waves of comical cheer. With humorous songs like "Touched by an Uncle" and "Blood is the Best Lube, Period," particularly sensitive audience members need not apply. The brave women of The Eager Beavers are Ali Heyer on vocals, keyboard, ukulele and bass, Carrie Bodwell on piano and vocals and Jonna Threlkeld on vocals, banjo, sax, clarinet and guitar.

Closing the show with a shot of reggae will be I-Chèle & The Circle of Light. Originally hailing from New York City, I-Chèle is now based in Portland, Ore. She blends R&B and reggae into a fusion held together by her versatile voice. Her vocals float in, around and through synth effects and deep beats, producing an entrancing underwater effect. I-Chèle is backed by The Circle of Light, a group of musicians who, in 2006, were a backing band at the NW World Reggae Festival. I-Chèle's current album, Salon d'Esoterica (Liquid Love), was produced by Vince Black, who has previously played guitar with the likes of Black Uhuru and Wailing Souls.

Demimonde Slumber Party, The Eager Beavers and I-Chèle and The Circle of Light play with Heidi Marie 10 pm Saturday, Nov. 3, at Oak Street Speakeasy; 21+, no cover. — Natalie Horner

TAKE A HIT OF REEFER MADNESS: THE MUSICAL

The hysterical anti-marijuana hysteria of the ACE

I don't much care for pot. In theory, marijuana strikes me as an ideal recreational drug, a mellow, groovy high that is nowhere near as murderous as alcohol or aggrandizing as cocaine — not to mention that, unlike junk, it would take an almost Herculean effort to get addicted to the weed. That said, it's really too bad that whenever I huff bud I wind up feeling like Woody Allen on pig's feet and strychnine, fretting that I didn't wipe good enough and convinced I've come down with lupus.

Because of this, it seems to me I'd make the perfect decriminalization advocate: a non-user who nonetheless, and for thoroughly practical reasons, believes the current state of prohibition against marijuana to be a ridiculous pretext for beefing up the police state, padding the pockets of government bureaucrats and cracking down on basic human rights and freedom. Smoke 'em if you got 'em, I say, and if you really want to cap a hot cherry on that giggle-stick, get thine high self to Actors Cabaret of Eugene's current production of Reefer Madness: The Musical; this sly, sexy and expertly conceived stagework is to drug hysteria what A Modest Proposal was to Irish poverty, though where Swift was stark and pissed off, Reefer Madness remains off-beat and riotously funny.

Adapted for the stage from the outrageous 1936 exploitation film, now a certifiable stoner cult classic, Reefer Madness centers on the tragic tale of star-crossed sweethearts Jimmy Harper (Trevor Eichhorn) and Mary Lane (Sophie Mitchell), a pair of dewy eyed high schoolers possessed of an almost effervescent innocence; they are fresh young life incarnate. Enter Jack Stone (Jordan Nowotny), an unctuously charming snake whose poisons of choice include dealing joints of "muggle" and abusing his strung-out girlfriend Mae Coleman (Megan Hammon). When naive Jimmy happens into Jack's seedy lair, seeking swing lessons, the hood sics on him the slatternly Sally (Monique Morgan), who seduces him to take a toke of the wacky stuff. Talk about "gateway" drugs: From here, Jimmy's collapse includes such high caliber crimes as grand theft auto, vehicular homicide and back-talking Jesus himself.

Keenly directed by Joe Zingo, with sophisticated musical direction by Mark Van Beever (who also excels as the menacing pothead dunce Ralph), Reefer Madness is an unqualified triumph for ACE — the material couldn't be more well-suited to this homespun troupe's edgy political and aesthetic sensibilities, and they sink their collective teeth into it like hippies into a hash-brownie sundae. Whether joined in an ensemble musical number like the schlock-creepy title song, which channels the B-movie glory of old Hammer horror flicks, or staging the over determined faux-nostalgia of a sock hop at "the Ol' Five and Dime," the young cast is superb; they prove astonishingly conversant in the ways of vaudevillian comedy and Broadway dance. None of the actors should go unheralded, but I would be particularly remiss here if I didn't mention the leads in particular. Mitchell, who was so stunning in Spring Awakening, may be our finest local actor; she has a strong, versatile voice, she's got chops galore and she exudes charm and charisma. Eichhorn is no less accomplished, especially in our era's most undervalued quality: He's a first-rate physical comedian. Watching Eichhorn's gee-willikers turn as Jimmy brought to mind both the lanky, loose-limbed grace of a young Jimmy Stewart and the razzle-dazzle shine of the dancing James Cagney (or, more recently, stars like Justin Timberlake and Joseph Gordon-Levitt).

Fine moments and scenes of surpassing hilarity are too numerous to mention here (where else will you find "taste so great" with "transubstantiate?"), and besides, far be it from me to spoil the many surprises and shocks of joy awaiting unsuspecting audiences. Let it be said, simply, that the sound, tone, choreography and atmosphere of this musical — which ranges from unreconstructed pulp noir and Monty Python-esque gothic to '50s agitprop and a kind of David Lynch-meets-Busby Berkeley extravagance — are never less than engaging, joyously so, and it's a hard, puritanical heart that won't warm to the goosing politics that always lurk just below the surface. There is method to this madness: Reefer Madness ekes out the insipid and iniquitous fears that fuel anti-marijuana hysteria — typically the same anti-youth, anti-sex, counter-revolutionary puritanical repression that also bolster abstinence campaigns and book burnings — and it does so with wit, wisdom and a very healthy dose of parody.

Because let's face it: In this election season, as with all vital (and typically depressing) political matters, laughter remains the best medicine. Get a hit of Reefer Madness, and let your despair go up in smoke for a night. ■

Reefer Madness: The Musical plays through Nov. 10 at Actors Cabaret of Eugene, 996 Willamette; ActorsCabaret.org or 683-4368.

BRUISE & BREWS

Time for fomenting & fermenting

I'm writing days before this ominous election, a harsh test of our fragile democracy, a chance for us to learn if mere money can overwhelm the process. One test: If voters have elected a zombie fraud, financed by a Wall Street hedge-fund vampire, over Peter DeFazio, one of the most principled congressmen ever to sit in the House, then maybe we have little reason to hope that this experiment in democratic self-rule has much chance for success.

But democracies have failed before (Athens, Rome, Germany — examples abound). One of the consolations of reading a lot of history is the knowledge that hellishly vile people have grasped power in the past and have done great harm to millions — Hitler, Stalin, Pol Pot, Bokassa — then have themselves faded into dust, and, despite all that despotic depravity, common people have endured and survived. Life goes on.

The most dependable consolation, however, is still remembering that good people endure. And that's a reason to give thanks in the season of Thanksgiving: Even if the election produces a nightmarish outcome, we have this moment to gather friends and family and share our table, the best grub we can gather, the best wine we can afford.

As usual, we urge you to buy local, even if foreign competitors have been fighting for market-share by slashing prices (for example, a juicy Barbera from Italy's Casteggio rides on retailers' shelves for $7.99, an absurdly low price for an import).

Share some good news, too: Despite a dubious future, confident individuals keep creating new enterprises. Case in point, Simon Blatz and others have opened Blue Dog Mead (tasting room at 245 Lincoln, open by appointment). He's been joined by winemaker Ray Walsh and, most recently, Ninkasi, aiming to produce a local version of the world's oldest brewed drink.

Mead starts with honey, water and yeast ("And a blessing," Walsh adds). The mix ferments, then undergoes blending and "adjustments" for balance. Next, some gets carbonated for sparkle; some diverts to become a "wine-product," a still wine (no bubbles or very few), fills wine bottles and retails for $7.99. It's available now and would make a surprising addition to your holiday feasting, delivering distinctive honey/pear/ apple flavors with crisp acidity; despite the honey base, this is not a "sweet," sugary wine. Served slightly chilled, it "smells like honey, tastes like honey," Blatz says, but would complement appetizers and some entrées. Mead has the added virtue of reminding us that even when much is taken away, much endures.

We really can't get more traditional than mead, but wine made from grapes also packs history. In local lore, King Estate has played a major role in establishing an Oregon identity for the dry white we call pinot gris (or pinot grigio) in the global wine market. Then King launched a second label, less expensive than estate wines; thus began the Acrobat line, and it succeeded beyond parental dreams — Acrobat 2011 Pinot Gris ($11) is bright and crisp with delightful pear/apple flavors, fine company for roast bird, even tofurkey.

A local red with style and flavor, at a bargain price-point: Lone Oak Vineyards 2008 Pinot Noir ($11.50!), Monroe-born, is light in body but long in pinot flavors — cherry, strawberry, spice. Drink with anything. Witness Tree 2010 Pinot Noir ChainSaw ($19), a Salem native, offers a heftier body, notes of raspberry, earthiness, complex and enticing.

Need a big red for Aunt Mary? Try J. Scott 2009 Avanté ($17.50) a crafty assemblage of syrah, viognier, petite sirah and Grenache — rich, ripe and flexible, suitable for a range of richly flavored dishes.

Remember that Thanksgiving weekend is a fine time to tour wineries with visiting friends and family. Most of the wineries are open for tasting and many offer special events — lotsa music. Check online (willamettewines.com) for details. Designate a driver. Be careful. Enduring requires diligence. ■

What is a D.O.?

Many of you have probably not even noticed whether your doctor has M.D. or D.O. behind his name. However, when you start looking for a new practitioner, you notice the choices listed as M.D., D.O., D.C., N.D., etc. This article will highlight the unique training and philosophy of D.O.s (Doctors of Osteopathy).

The two types of practitioners that are licensed physicians for the full scope of medicine, including surgery and prescribing, are M.D.s and D.O.s. Both are fully licensed and eligible for board certification in their specialty. Both have attended four year medical schools, passed board exams, and attended at least a 3 year residency in their specialty. The main difference in their education is that osteopaths have an additional component in their curriculum which focuses on the musculoskeletal system and teaches Osteopathic Manipulative Medicine (OMM).

A.T. Still, founder of osteopathy, stated, "Any variation from health has a cause, and that cause has a location. It is the business of the osteopathic physician to locate and remove it, doing away with the disease and getting healthy instead." He also taught that the body has the natural ability to heal itself. Thus, the role of the osteopathic physician is to guide the patient to wellness.

Modern osteopathic physicians use prescription medications, surgeries, and all the tools at their disposal, including seeing patients during hospitalizations, just like their allopathic counterparts. However, while M.D.s usually focus on the relief of symptoms and disease management, D.O.s will look to remove the cause of disease and focus on health and wellness. D.O.s also use manual therapies such as myofascial release, muscle energy, counter strain, HVLA, and cranial field to remove blockages that may be hindering the natural healing process.

Dr. Orestes Gutierrez, D.O. is board certified in Family Medicine and in Integrative Holistic Medicine, practicing in an Ideal Medical Practice in South Eugene. Come in for 30 to 60 minute appointments and discover your unique path to health.

S.A.R.A.'s Shelter Animal Resource Alliance Rescued Cat of the Week

Kai is a charming, handsome guy who loves to talk and play. He expresses his excitement with chirps and purrs. His favorite playmate is Angus; these two go absolutely crazy for that little red laser pointer light. Because Kai is such a social boy he would love to go home with Angus or to a home that has kitties already. Kai has a history of struvite crystals in his urine, however eating only wet food will prevent these crystals from returning. Stop by soon to visit with all of our rescued cats and kittens!

We often hear that vegetarians struggle with feeding meat to their dogs and cats. Solution: adopt a rabbit! Not only do bunnies make great pets, but they're also herbivores. Every rabbit adoption at Greenhill is accompanied by a free class designed to take the guess work out of caring for our gentlest of friends. Before you know it, you'll be chopping salad for two. Bo, here, is a young and fearless, purebred Dutch bunny and one of five rabbits waiting to go home. Start up a friendship with a like-minded individual, just on a smaller and furrer scale. Or, if you've got a penchant for members of the order carnivora, meet some at PetSmart on Coburg Rd this Sunday from 11am-3pm.

TRUSTEE'S NOTICE OF SALE

Reference is made to that certain trust deed made by Robert E. Marker, grantor, to Evergreen Land Title Company, as trustee, in favor of LibertyBank, as beneficiary, dated May 30, 2006, and recorded June 13, 2006, as Instrument No. 2006-040845 of the Official Records of Lane County, Oregon. The beneficial interest in said trust deed was assigned to Home Federal Bank by instrument recorded on June 14, 2012 in the Official Records of Lane County, Oregon as Instrument No. 2012-029187, covering the following described real property situated in said county and state, to-wit: Beginning at the Southwest corner of Section 34, in Township 16 South of Range 4 West of the Willamette Meridian, and running thence East along the South line of said section, 23.00 chains to the West line of The Marion Scott Donation Land Claim No. 40, in said township, thence North 15.22 chains; thence West 23.00 chains to the West line of said Section 34, and thence South 15.22 chains to the place of beginning, in Lane County, Oregon. EXCEPT that certain tract conveyed to Lane County by Deed recorded February 7, 1917, in Book 113, Page 378, Lane County Oregon Deed Records, in Lane County, Oregon; ALSO EXCEPT that portion of said property conveyed to Northwest Flax Products Company, which is described as follows: Beginning at the Northwest corner of the property described in the Lane County Survey No. 2066, Lane County Gravel Pit, in Section 34, Township 16 South, Range 4 West, Willamette Meridian, which is identical to the Northeast corner of the property herein described; proceed North 89° 34' West, a distance of 431.6 feet to the Northwest corner of said property; thence South 0° 26' West, 35.0 feet to the Southwest corner of said property; thence South 89° 34' East, 431.6 feet to the Southeast corner of said property; thence North 0° 26' East, 35.0 feet to the starting point, in Lane County, Oregon; ALSO EXCEPT: Beginning at a point which is North 38° 13' 00" East 1081.7 feet from the Southwest corner of Section 34, Township 16 South, Range 4 West of the Willamette Meridian and running thence North 0° 21' 00" East 85.00 feet to the true point of beginning; thence North 89° 39' 00" West 150.00 feet; thence North 89° 39' 00" East 150.00 feet; thence South 89° 39' 00" East 150.00 feet; thence South 0° 21' 00" West 30.00 feet to the true point of beginning, all in Lane County, Oregon; ALSO EXCEPT that portion conveyed to Lane County, a political subdivision of the State of Oregon, by deed recorded March 5, 1984, Reception No. 84-08524, Lane County Official Records, in Lane County, Oregon. The property is commonly known as 90909 Prairie Road, Eugene, OR 97405. Both the Beneficiary and the Trustee have elected to sell the said real property to satisfy the obligations secured by said Trust Deed and a Notice of Default has been recorded pursuant to Oregon Revised Statutes 86.735[3]; the default for which the foreclosure is made is Grantors' breach of loan covenants in one or more of the following particulars: 1. Grantor's failure to pay the amounts due and owing on that certain Limited Judgment entered in Lane County Case No. 16-10-23273 as set forth below. 2. Grantor's failure to pay the amounts due and owing on that certain General Judgment entered in Lane County Case No. 16-11-00057 as set forth below. 3. A material adverse change in the financial condition of Grantor. 4. Grantor's failure to pay the accelerated sum due on Loan No. 145800192 as set forth below despite demand therefor. By reason of said default, the Beneficiary has declared all sums owing on the obligation secured by said Trust Deed immediately due and payable, said sums being the following, to-wit: Judgment No. 1; Lane County Case No. 16-10-23273: Principal: $246,119.26. Interest @ 16%: $62,138.88 (Interest continues to accrue at 16% per annum or $107.88 per day). Fees on Previous Writs of Garnishment: $450.00. Less Payments Received: ($47,188.84). Total Owed on Judgment No. 1: $260,764.14. Judgment No. 2; Lane County Case No. 16-11-00057: Principal: $33,915.00. Interest @ 17.5%: $10,665.37 (Interest continues to accrue at 17.5% per annum). Prevailing Party Fee: $275.00. Attorney Fees: $1,515.00. Costs: $273.00. Interest on Fees & Costs @ 9%: $229.09. Total Owed on Judgment No. 2: $46,872.86. High Prairie Loan: Principal: $415,307.78. Interest @ 6.75%: $5,920.18. Reconveyance Fee: $90.00. Appraisal Fee: $14,675.00. Escrow Balance: ($7,190.78). Total Owed on High Prairie Loan: $428,802.18 for a GRAND TOTAL of $737,194.34 and such other costs and fees as are due under the note or other instrument secured, and as are provided by statute. WHEREFORE, notice is hereby given that the undersigned Trustee will on JANUARY 10, 2013, AT THE HOUR OF 10:00 O'CLOCK A.M., IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE STANDARD OF TIME ESTABLISHED BY ORS 187.110, AT THE LANE COUNTY COURTHOUSE STEPS, 125 E. 8TH AVENUE, IN THE CITY OF EUGENE, COUNTY OF LANE, OREGON, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the interest in said described real property which the Grantors had or had power to convey at the time of the execution by him of the said Trust Deed, together with any interest which the Grantors or their successors in interest acquired after the execution of said Trust Deed, to satisfy the foregoing obligations thereby secured and the costs and expenses of sale, including a reasonable charge by the Trustee. Notice is further given that any person named in ORS 86.753 has the right, at any time prior to five days before the date last set for the sale, to have this foreclosure proceeding dismissed and the Trust Deed reinstated by payment to the Beneficiary of the entire amount when due (other than such portion of the principal).

FREE WILL ASTROLOGY

BY ROB BREZNY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Big opportunities are coming up for you. Even if you cash in on them, though, they aren't likely to make an immediate practical impact. They are subtle and deep, these prospects. They have the potential of catalyzing monumental shifts in your long-term unfolding, but will take a while to transform your day-to-day rhythm. So what are these openings? Here are my guesses: 1. You could root out a bad seed that got embedded in your subconscious mind before you knew any better. 2. You could reinterpret the meaning of certain turning points in your past, thereby revising the flow of your life story. 3. You could forgive yourself for an old sin you thought you'd never let go of. 4. You could receive a friendly shock that will diminish some sadness you've carried for a long time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): This would be a good time to get introspective and meditative about your urge to merge ... to think objectively about the way you approach togetherness ... to be honest with yourself about what strengths and weaknesses you bring to the art of collaboration. The most important question you can ask yourself during this inventory is this: "How do I personally contribute, either knowingly or unconsciously, to the problems I experience in relationships." Here's another query you might consider: "How hard am I willing to work to create the kinds of intimacy and alliances I say I want?"

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dear Rob: I seem to be marooned in an interesting limbo. The sights and sounds are not exactly pretty, but they keep me perversely entertained. I'm sampling tastes that are more sour than sweet, thinking that sooner or later the sweetness will start to prevail — but it never does. Sometimes I feel like I'm in a trance, unable to do what's best for me. Can you offer any help? Like maybe give me a password that would break me out of the trance? — Meandering Gemini. Dear Meandering: This is one of those rare times when you have cosmic permission to favor what's calming and reassuring rather than what's amusing and stimulating. Your password is sanctuary.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): On Sept. 22, the San Francisco Giants played a baseball game against the San Diego Padres. In the fourth inning, Giants' third baseman Pablo Sandoval sprinted to the edge of the field, then hurled himself over a railing and into the crowd in order to snag a foul pop-up. The fact that he landed upside down but perfectly unhurt wasn't the most impressive aspect of his feat. Nor was his improbable ability to wield such precise concentration while invoking so much raw force. Even more amazing was the pink bubble that Sandoval blew with his chewing gum nanoseconds before he dived. It was a supremely playful and successful Zen moment. That's the spirit I hope you will bring to your efforts in the coming days.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your unconscious mind will be more accessible than usual in the coming weeks. It will reveal its agendas more clearly and play more of an active role in your life. Is that a good thing or a bad thing? It will depend on how open-minded you are toward the surprises your secret self will reveal. If you try to ignore or repress its eruptions, they'll probably wreak chaos. If, on the other hand, you treat this other part of you as an unpredictable but generous ally, you may be able to work out a collaboration that serves you both.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Urbanictionary.com defines "Skymall solution" as "an absurdly single-purposed tool or solution that solves a problem you don't actually have." The term is derived from the famous Skymall catalog, which sells unusual specialty products. According to my analysis of the current astrological omens, you should be wary of any attraction you might have to Skymall solutions. Do you really need a King Tut tissue box cover or an ice cube tray that makes ice in the shape of dachshunds or a stencil set for putting messages on your bundt cake? I doubt it. Nor do you need their metaphorical equivalents.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Right before I woke up this morning, I had a dream that one of my teeth fell out. As I lay there groggily in bed, my mind searched for its meaning. "What does losing a tooth symbolize?" I asked myself. "What is its psychological meaning?" I promised myself that when I got up, I would Google that question. But my rumination was interrupted by a dull ache in the back of my mouth, and it was only then that I remembered: Yesterday, in actual waking life, I had a real tooth yanked out by a real dentist. The moral of the story, Libra: Be wary of making up elaborate stories and mythic assumptions about events that have simple, mundane explanations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This is an excellent time to explore the frontiers of wise foolishness. I'm hoping you will take full advantage of learning opportunities that might require you to shed your excess dignity and acknowledge how much you don't know. Are you brave enough to disavow cynical thoughts and jaded attitudes that muffle your lust for life? Are you smart enough to understand how healthy it would be to go out and play like an innocent wild child? Make yourself available for delightful surprises.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Zombies used to be terrifying. But then they became a featured motif in pop culture, often in humorous contexts, and now there's a growing acceptance and even affection for them. Here's the view of Max Brooks, author of The Zombie Survival Guide: "Eventually rock and roll morphs from Sid Vicious to the Jonas Brothers. Same thing with vampires: We went from Dracula to Twilight to make them peachy and G-rated. I guarantee you someone is working on a way to take the fear out of zombies and market them to children." Your assignment, Sagittarius, is to do to your personal fears what the entertainment industry has done to zombies: Turn them into amusing caricatures that don't trouble you so much. For example, visualize an adversary singing a duet with Justin Bieber.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): "You must learn from the mistakes of others," said humorist Sam Levenson. "You can't possibly live long enough to make them all yourself." That's excellent advice for you right now, Capricorn. In order to glean the teachings you need most, you won't have to bumble through a single wrong turn or bad decision yourself. There will be plenty of blundering role models who will be providing you with the precise inspiration you need. Study them carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Every November, thousands of writers participate in National Novel Writing Month. They pledge to compose at least 50,000 words of a new novel in that 30-day period. In accordance with the astrological omens, Aquarius, I propose that you commit yourself to a comparable project in your own field. Is there a potential masterpiece on which you could get a substantial amount of work done? Is there a major transformation you've long wanted to undertake but have always had some excuse to avoid? I predict that you will attract unexpected help and luck if you summon the willpower to focus on that task.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't believe the climate is changing? Go ask the birds what they think. Sixty percent of all the feathered species in North America have moved north in the past 46 years. Scientists are pretty sure their migration is a response to the warming trend that's afoot. I like the idea of tuning in to how animals behave in order to get accurate information about the state of the world. Would you consider doing more of that, Pisces? According to my astrological analysis, the coming months will be a time when you can learn a lot from non-human intelligences.

HOMEWORK: It's easy to see fanaticism, rigidity and intolerance in other people, but harder to acknowledge them in yourself. Do you dare? Tell all at Freewillastrology.com.

SAVAGE LOVE

WORDS OF WISDOM BY DAN SAVAGE

So I was innocently browsing the personal ads on Craigslist and saw one from a dude who was looking to try "saline balls" for the first time. Having no idea what this was, I googled it. Even worse, I google-imaged it. I pride myself on being unshockable, but I was completely and utterly mortified at what I saw. With that said, my copious internet searching failed to yield the answers to the basic/most important questions regarding saline balls: (1) What is the procedure/process for salining one's balls? (2) What about it turns on the saliner/saline? (3) How long does the effect last? (4) Can it be (god forbid) irreversible?

Completely Utterly Mortified

"The technical name for what CUM is asking about is 'scrotal inflation,'" says Dart, a leatherman, BDSM/kink educator, and host of the Dart's Domain podcast. "It's a type of body-modification play where the scrotum is infused with approximately 500 milliliters to one liter of saline solution via an IV/cannula drip, which results in the balls appearing to have enlarged to the size of a pair of grapefruits."

Saline, of course, is simply salt water, and sterile saline solutions are administered intravenously to dehydrated patients so that they don't, you know, die. But some people — like the guys your Craigslist friend was seeking out — engage in recreational saline play. But they're not putting saline in their balls, CUM, they're putting saline in their ball sacks.

"The skin of the sack has a great deal of elasticity and can safely stretch to this large size without incurring damage," says Dart. Balls, of course, are not noted for their elasticity, and they can burst. "While this is a more extreme form of kink play, if done under sterile conditions with hospital-grade materials, it can be accomplished with a minimal risk," says Dart. "No one should experiment with scrotal inflation without some experienced guidance, and no one should do it alone. Some of the risks that can happen include local infection and cellulitis, which can occur from a lack of sterility. There can also be dangerous problems if any air was present in the tubing of the IV during the infusion. But again, if proper precautions are taken, these risks can be avoided."

The inflation process takes about an hour, the effect lasts for a day or two, and the sack gradually returns to normal size as the saline is absorbed into the body. So the process is always reversible — so long as you're inflating your sack with saline and not, say, silicone, Spackle, or packing peanuts. Your sack may be a little looser afterward, but you're not going to be stuck with a giant sack forever.

As for why this is a turn-on, well, turn-ons are highly subjective.

"The turn-on answer varies from person to person," says Dart. "For some, there is a certain rush from temporarily modifying a part of their body to a 'monstrous' size. Others have 'medical play' fantasies. In a power exchange setting between a dominant and a submissive, the dom may get off on 'altering' a part of the sub's body against the sub's will, while the sub may get turned on by the humiliation aspect. It's a wide spectrum. As I say, it's not for everyone. But many, including myself, have engaged in it safely and had a pretty fun time doing it."

You once pointed out that you only heard from readers when their attempts to be GGG backfired. If something went wrong, you got a letter. But when an effort to be GGG didn't cause a problem, no one wrote you. And this was leading other readers to conclude that being GGG is always a risky mistake. So I thought I'd write to tell you that nothing went wrong after I was GGG for my girlfriend (we had sex in a series of semipublic places) and she was GGG for me (she arranged a small CFNM party at which I was the NM). We are being GGG and all is well with us, Dan, and we wanted to thank you for giving us the tools that we needed to talk about this stuff!

Thanks for sharing, CAME.

I have a problem with a guy I like and his porn habits. I know you've answered a lot of questions about porn, but I don't think you've answered one like mine. The problem is I used to be his porn. I work part-time as a cam girl. He was one of my regular customers. I came to like him as a human being, and he seemed to feel the same about me. This last summer, we actually got a chance to meet in person. It was fucking amazing! Since then, we've continued playing online, although for free now, because it feels unethical to charge someone who I really like. We've also tossed around the idea of another visit. So here's the problem: He's still paying other cam girls, and it makes me upset. I don't mind that he looks at porn, Dan. I don't even mind that he pays for live interactive porn. There are plenty of times when he's horny but I'm asleep (we live in different time zones) or I'm at my other job, and I don't care what he does then. The thing is, I feel I should be the one he plays with when we're both awake and online at the same time. But just as often, when we are both awake and online, he's busy with other cam girls. It makes me feel ignored and neglected.

Am I overreacting? Should I ask to be prioritized over porn? And how can I bring up this subject? I don't want to tell him that he can't jerk off or insist that I have to be at the center of everything he thinks about sexually, but feeling constantly sidelined isn't okay either. And frankly, it makes me feel like a chump for not charging him anymore.

Clever Acronym Missing

Monitoring this guy's porn habits seems like a waste of time and emotional energy, CAM, considering that he's not your boyfriend, you've only met in person on one occasion, you don't live in the same time zone, and a second meeting is just an idea that's being "tossed around." You're not in a relationship with him and, really, would you wanna be? I'm pro-porn and I'm pro-porn-cam girls, but a guy who invests the amount of time, money, and emotional energy in porn that Mr. Not Your Boyfriend does, well, he hardly seems like decent relationship material.

But you've got nothing to lose — literally nothing — so go ahead and ask him to prioritize you over porn, and to prioritize the free porn you're offering him over the porn he's still paying for, and see what he says. If you don't like what you hear, CAM, if he makes it clear that he doesn't feel about you the same way that you feel about him, then you should definitely start charging him again.
